MRS. M'REE, MAID AND BABY ROBBER'S PRISONERS IN HOME

Daylight Burglar in 4444 Maryland Avenue Masked and With a Revolver Holds Up the Women and Escapes With $2500 in Jewelry.

WOMEN IN CLOSET MORE THAN AN HOUR

Mrs. McRee's Hair Dresser Arrives and Releases Her and Servant—Man Went In Through Back Door and Surprised Women.

A lullaby which Mrs. Helen Aull McRee was crooning over her baby Monday morning in the nursery on the second floor of her residence, 4444 Maryland avenue, was interrupted by a sudden command to "Keep still." On the threshold stood a masked man, armed with a revolver.

Robber Is Armed.

As Mrs. McRee, clasping the baby to her breast, sprang to her feet, the robber pointed the revolver at her, covering at the same time her maid, Elizabeth Brown, who was in the room.

"Get into the closet," cried the intruder to Mrs. McRee.

She protested that a clothes basket within left her no room to enter. She was then driven at pistol point into the maid's room, next door, and forced to get into a closet there with her baby. The robber turned the key of the closet door. Then the maid was compelled to enter a closet downstairs, which was also locked. Mrs. McRee said that, a minute after she was left in darkness in her prison, she heard the clock strike 9:30 o'clock.

The bandit, it was seen afterwards, cut the downstairs telephone wire with a butcher knife which he picked up in the kitchen, but did not destroy the connection, as this was only a connecting wire from the telephone upstairs. Then, in Mrs. McRee's bedroom upstairs, he rifled the dresser, taking jewelry valued at $2500. He escaped unseen through the unlocked kitchen door through which he had entered.

At 11:45 o'clock Mary E. Richardson, a negro hairdresser, went to the house and rang the front door bell. She was astonished to hear the muffled sound of a woman's screams.

Found by Hairdresser.

She went to the rear door and entered the house. From the front hall came cries of "Let me out!" She traced them to the closet, unlocked it and released the maid. Then they hastened upstairs and freed Mrs. McRee, who seemed little agitated by her experience, although she had been confined for nearly an hour. The baby was comfortably asleep.

Loot Worth $2500.

Her hubsand, J. Fergus McRee, told reporters at first that the robber had taken two rings from his wife's fingers, but stated afterwards he had been mistaken, and that all the jewelry was taken from the dresser. The loot included a ring set with three diamonds and valued at $1500, a ring set with sapphires and diamonds, a woman's watch, a brooch set with 30 small diamonds, a set of dress suit studs, a platinum heart pendant set with diamonds, a vanity box bearing the initials "H. W. A." and a revolver.

McRee, an insurance man, with offices in the Pierce Building, is the son of William B. McRee, a retired capitalist.

"What's the matter with me?" said Jiggs, throwing out his chest.

"Go 'way. What we need is a man of unusual distinction; one who stands in a class by himself."

"Sure. That's me."

"You must be joking. What makes you distinguished? Do you write the Ozark dog song?"

"No. I'm the only man that hasn't been waylaid and robbed in the West End in the last three weeks."

Sunday Post-Dispatch Circulation Goes Over 300,000

THE circulation of the Sunday Post-Dispatch reached the enormous total of 301,465 yesterday. No peculiar set of circumstances conspired to place the figure so high; the goal was attained as a result of natural growth. Week by week during the term of its existence the distribution of the Sunday Post-Dispatch has grown wider, the demand for it has grown greater. It will continue to grow. The achievement is but the reaching of another milestone in its progress.

Founded in October, 1887, the Sunday Post-Dispatch attained a circulation of 100,000 in 1897; the 200,000 mark was reached in 1903, and yesterday passed the third century of inevitable growth.

There is no other Sunday newspaper west of the Mississippi which has a circulation of 301,465. The Globe-Democrat comes nearest to this high altitude, having, according to its published figures, an average of 174,249 on the Sundays in January. Thus it will be seen that the circulation of the Sunday Post-Dispatch is 127,216 greater than the Sunday Globe-Democrat.

The importance of the Sunday Post-Dispatch's achievement is emphasized when one realizes that in circulating 301,465 copies yesterday it exceeded the COMBINED circulations of the Sunday Globe-Democrat and the Sunday Republic. The following comparison is made on the basis of each newspaper's published figures:

The Sunday Post-Dispatch	301,465
The Sunday Globe-Democrat	174,249
The Sunday Republic	120,778
Globe-Democrat and Republic combined	295,027
Excess of Sunday Post-Dispatch over combined Globe-Democrat and Republic	6,438

The Post-Dispatch circulation crossed the line of 290,000 in November, and despite unfavorable weather and the holiday season, has not since dropped below that mark. The figures:

Nov. 26	292,444
Dec. 3	293,632
Dec. 10	293,421
Dec 17	296,389
Dec. 24	294,026
Dec. 31	293,294
Jan. 7	292,269
Jan. 14	291,450
Jan. 21	294,354
Jan. 28	295,775
Feb. 4	298,110
Feb. 11	301,465

America's Greatest Newspapers.

Let us try to make the height attained appreciable to the reader who, having small knowledge of circulations of newspapers, may not understand our satisfaction. Consider, for instance, this striking fact: That there are in all America only SEVEN Sunday newspapers whose circulation exceeds that of the Sunday Post-Dispatch. These papers are printed in THREE cities, namely: New York, Chicago and Boston.

The populations within 100 miles' radius of Boston and Chicago approximate 3,000,000, and of New York between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000, while a similar circle drawn about St. Louis contains about 1,000,000 persons. Notwithstanding the enormous difference of opportunity for gaining circulation two of the Boston papers and one of the Chicago papers have but little more than 301,465. The highest of the three referred to, which has, according to its published statement, 323,147, gained less than 2000 in the last year over the preceding year, while in the same period the growth of the Sunday Post-Dispatch was more than 14,000.

These facts lead to the inevitable conclusion that the Sunday Post-Dispatch has a far larger percentage of circulation in proportion to its territory than any one of the seven Sunday newspapers that exceed it in circulation, and that in the last year it increased seven times faster than a fast-growing progressive newspaper printed in a territory thrice as favorable for the gaining of readers.

Normal and healthy growth has characterized the history of the Sunday Post-Dispatch. If, for brevity's sake, we take the figures for alternate years of the last decade this wholesomeness and continuity of advance is plainly seen:

Year.	Sunday Post-Dispatch Average Circulation.
1901	158,637
1903	197,325
1905	223,588
1907	252,459
1909	262,374
1911	274,361

There are eight cities in America having over 500,000 population. Philadelphia has 1,549,008 persons, but no Sunday newspaper having 300,000 circulation. Cleveland (560,663), Baltimore (558,485) and Pittsburg (533,905) have large population in their immediate environs, but not one of these cities has a Sunday newspaper with 300,000 circulation. Nor has Cincinnati, New Orleans, Washington, D. C., Buffalo, Detroit, Milwaukee, San Francisco or Los Angeles.

Goal Attained on Merit.

The fact that the Sunday Post-Dispatch distributes 301,465 copies should make every St. Louisan proud. It is an achievement in which the whole municipality and State may share. It has been won on merit, and further heights will be attained by the devotion to the same principles which have guided the Sunday Post-Dispatch in the past.

In distributing this enormous number of papers a great force is needed and a thoroughly organized force of great dimensions. There are in St. Louis nearly 200 carriers, about 500 branch stations and 3000 newsboys engaged each Sunday in the distributing work. Twenty-three horse-drawn vehicles and three automobiles are employed to make the deliveries of various editions to branch offices, railway trains, express offices and the Postoffice. Chartered trains and chartered trolley cars supplement the regular means of transporting papers to outlying cities and towns. Nearly 4000 accounts are kept with newsdealers out of St. Louis. Many of these have large forces of carriers and newsboys. In a large number of cities the Sunday Post-Dispatch wagons and newsboys' carts are as familiar objects on the streets as they are in St. Louis.

Wherever it goes—all over the West and South—the Sunday Post-Dispatch advertises St. Louis as the home of the livest, most interesting and progressive newspaper known to the people. In one city several wagons are used by the district circulator to make the distribution to more than four hundred news stands. It is a well-known and admitted fact that in many communities the circulation of the Sunday Post-Dispatch exceeds that of the best local newspaper.

Printing Covers Entire Week.

Supplying all the agencies for distribution with copies of the paper is a great task and the printing covers the entire week. The Funnyside, Fiction, Magazine and Picture sections go to press far in advance of the News sections, and, as they come from the pressroom, are assembled, so that the News sections, printed last of all, may be assembled with them in the shortest possible space of time. For in the handling of this enormous circulation every second counts. Notwithstanding the bulk of the Sunday newspaper and the number to be distributed, news received as late as 11:30 on Saturday night is read at the breakfast table by purchasers of the Sunday Post-Dispatch in scores of Missouri and Illinois towns. Papers leaving St. Louis on the 1 a. m. Sunday Baltimore & Ohio train cross Illinois, Indiana and part of Ohio, so that Cincinnati readers have their Sunday Post-Dispatch at 11 a. m. Before that hour Kansas City has been generously supplied, and other trains have carried the greatest of Sunday newspapers north and south.

AVOID A SCANDAL, TAFT WROTE IN A PERSONAL LETTER

Paymaster Accused in Connection With Woman Was Shielded, Says General.

HE HELPED PRESIDENT

Presumed Too Much on Political Service, Executive Wrote to Whipple.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The alleged political influence of Maj. Beecher B. Ray, the Army Paymaster, declared to have enjoyed frequent changes of station and immunity from various troubles because of the influence of President Taft, was again a subject of investigation today before the House Committee on Expenditures in the War Department.

Two letters from the President to Gen. Whipple were read, one of which was marked "Personal and Confidential." The President suggested that the letter be kept out of the official files.

Paymaster-General Whipple testified that Maj. Ray had established a record in the service for frequent changes in station. In 13 years he had been stationed successively at 18 points; whereas the average assignment of a paymaster at any station is between three and four years.

Chairman Helm asked Gen. Whipple if any of the assignments had been made at the direction of President Taft.

"Yes," he answered. "In 1909 the President asked that Maj. Ray be sent to Atlanta and in November, 1911, that he be sent to New York."

"At whose request was it that Maj. Ray was sent to Chicago from Atlanta rather than to New York?"

"I got orders from the Chief of Staff's office to make the change to Chicago. The Chief of Staff said Mrs. Ray was ill and a surgical operation was to be performed in Chicago. Gen. Carter said this change was made at the request of the White House."

A year after the first letter was written, President Taft sent this letter to Gen. Whipple:

The White House, Washington, July 14, 1911.—My Dear Gen. Whipple: I write this that you may show it to Mr. Hay and Mr. Sweet of the Military Committee. You have come to me at your instance with the statement that you have learned that Mr. Sweet is indignant because he thinks he has been misquoted in regard to an omission of two or three pages of the War Department report called for by H. R. 208.

The part of the record omitted refers to a charge against Maj. Beech-

COURT KNOCKS OUT CITY ORDINANCE ON ELECTRICITY RATE

Allen Upholds Contention Measure Must "Fix," Not "Regulate" Charges.

STATE LAW NOT ATTACKED

Engineer Allison Says Competition Will Vanish if All Rates Must Be Fixed.

Judge Charles Claflin Allen in the Circuit Court Monday made permanent the temporary injunction obtained April 28, 1911, by the Union Electric Light and Power Co., to restrain the city of St. Louis from enforcing a maximum light rate ordinance. The contention of the Union Electric Co. was upheld at every point and the ordinance, which was approved April 12, 1911, was declared void.

This decision does not attack the broad operation of the Cooper act empowering cities to say what prices shall be charged by their public utilities corporations. It does attack the use the city has made of this right in this instance by holding that the ordinance does not comply specifically with the enabling act.

The legal question involved in this case was a matter of definitions of the words "fix" and "regulate." The light company insisted that the ordinance "regulated" the rates, whereas, while the enabling act does empower cities to "fix" rates, it does not empower cities to "regulate" them as it was contended this ordinance sought to do.

Prepared by the Commission.

The ordinance was prepared at the instance of the Public Service Commission. It provided that the maximum rate to be charged for electricity should be 9½ cents a kilowatt hour. The Union Electric immediately attacked it on the ground it did not comply with the enabling act.

H. S. Priest and John H. Brabelle, the corporation's attorneys, set up the contention that the language of the Cooper act specifically says the city shall have the power to "fix" rates. This ordinance, they contended, merely leaves it to the company to agree with customers upon rates, regulated by a maximum charge.

They cited many cases in support of their argument that "fix" and "regulate" are not synonomous terms. They also pleaded that the ordinance regulates the right of contractual freedom.

Called Plea a Mere Quibble.

In reply, Lambert E. Walther, city counselor, and his assistant, William E. Baird, argued that the contention of the corporation was merely a legal quibble. They charged the company was guilty of the "vice of seizing upon a particular word of the enabling act and placing emphasis on a single expression."

The Union Electric argument disregarded the spirit and ignored the purpose of the legislators, the city insisted, and its contention would produce a result not intended by the framers of the enabling act.

As soon as the answer of the city had been filed, the Union Electric filed a motion to hear the case on the pleadings and to award judgment to the plaintiff. In granting this motion, Judge Allen did not hand down any written opinion, merely instructing the clerk to enter the decree and judgment according to the prayer of the plaintiff corporation.

James E. Allison, chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, was the first member of that body to hear of the decision. He said he was surprised as he was not expecting an immediate order in the case.

"I don't like to comment upon a decision I haven't read and studied," he said. "But if this decision compels us by ordinance to fix rates all down the line, it practically insures the existing public service corporations immunity from competition.

"We could pass an ordinance fixing exact charges for every activity of such a corporation. But a new company coming in would have to make the same rate for the same service, even though it might wish to supply the service cheaper and might be able to do so."

It was Allison's opinion that the decision would handicap the work of the commission.

Judge Allen handed down a similar decision in the case of the Holland Realty & Power Co., owners of the Holland Building. This company has been furnishing electricity to buildings near the Holland, in which it has its own plant. It filed a suit to enjoin the City and Board of Public Improvements from removing the cables through which this power is transmitted. A temporary injunction was granted.

The city filed a cross-bill, asserting the company had not been authorized to transmit its electricity and asking that it be enjoined from maintaining its cables. Judge Allen sustained a demurrer to the cross-bill and made the injunction permanent.

PASTOR HEWSON WINS A DIVORCE, CHILD'S CUSTODY

Decree Ends Marital Troubles of Six Years of Congregational Minister.

By a divorce granted Monday to the husband, Judge Allen ended the marital troubles that have been in progress nearly six years between the Rev. Earl Hewson, pastor of the Reber Place Congregational Church, and his wife, Gertrude A. Hewson. The custody of the child, Gertrude, 8 years old, is awarded to Hewson, and no provision for her being visited by Mrs. Hewson is made in the decree.

The Hewsons were married in September, 1900, and separated in April, 1906. A short time after the separation Mrs. Hewson began habeas corpus proceedings to get custody of the child. In 1910 she filed a divorce suit at Clayton. Hewson answered with a cross bill and both petitions were dismissed.

Hewson filed his suit in St. Louis last May, alleging that his wife, in the presence of the Rev. Jacob E. Meeker and others, admitted improper conduct, and that she caused many embarrassing situations at his church. She filed a cross-bill, which was dismissed by Judge Allen.

Hewson recently asked that his wife be cited for contempt on the ground that she had taken the child out of town without the court's permission.

Though the decree said nothing about Mrs. Hewson being permitted to see the child, Hewson, after the trial, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he will not object to Mrs. Hewson's visiting the child at his home.

"But I want to keep the child under my influence," he said. "Two attempts at kidnaping have been made, and I will take no chances."

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by Associated Press.

WOMAN NOTED FOR CHARITY CALLED A "BUNCO ARTIST"

Mrs. Pell of Maplewood Arraigned by Judge in a Realty Loan Deal.

Mrs. Mary E. Pell, noted in Maplewood for her charities, was denounced in a decision handed down by Judge G. A. Wurdeman in the Clayton Circuit Court Monday in a suit brought by Mrs. Susan B. Leon, also of Maplewood, to establish priority of deed of trust on property which she sold to Mrs. Pell.

Despite the fact that Mrs. Pell was not named as a defendant in the suit, Judge Wurdeman, in his written opinion, says:

"Mrs. Pell's action was, of course, reprehensible in the extreme. She practiced a confidence game on the unsuspecting plaintiff, Mrs. Leon, that ought to earn for her a niche in the hall of fame of the most renowned bunco and confidence operators known to history."

It was said also in the decision that Mrs. Pell "became enriched to the extent of $1000 without turning her hand or risking a dollar."

Mrs. Leon in her suit named J. L. Swink, T. B. Barnes and J. W. McCormick as defendants. They are Maplewood real estate men. It was charged that after buying a house from Mrs. Leon and paying $1000 of the $3500 purchase price, Mrs. Pell, through her agents, borrowed $2000 on the property from William M. Manning of Jerseyville, Ill. McCormick and Barnes acted as agents in both transactions, the decision says, and knew that there was a prior deed of trust on the property when the loan was obtained from Manning.

Mrs. Pell's culpability, the Judge says, lay in borrowing $2000 on property in which she had only $1000 equity and in having the deed recorded as a first mortgage on the property when she knew that Mrs. Leon's deed was a prior lien.

Mrs. Pell purchased the property from Mrs. Leon last July. A short time later she obtained the $2000 loan from Manning and the warranty deed which she gave to Manning was filed Aug. 1. Mrs. Leon did not file her deed until five weeks later.

Judge Wurdeman ruled that the prior filing of the deed to Manning made no difference so far as Mrs. Leon's equity was concerned. He said Mrs. Leon and Manning both were innocent parties, but that Mrs. Leon's deed must have precedence as a first lien on the property. He also awarded to Mrs. Leon a judgment for costs.

400,000,000 ARE FREED AS OLDEST MONARCHY FALLS

Empire, Ruled by 36 Dynasties, the Last in Power Since 1644, Becomes the World's Largest Self-Governing Nation.

Unconditional Surrender, It Is Admitted by the Throne, Was to Obey Insistent Demands of the People.

Failure of Manchu Princes to Demand the Safeguarding of Many of Their Privileges Is Cause of Surprise.

By Associated Press.

PEKIN, Feb. 12.—China today joined the sisterhood of the world's republics. In three Imperial edicts the Manchu dynasty changed 400,000,000 subjects from an absolute rule, which ran through 36 dynasties, to citizens of the largest self-governing nation on the earth.

The first edict announced the abdication of the dynasty after 300 years of absolute rule; the second declared that the throne accepted the republic; the third approved all the conditions agreed on by Premier Yuan-Shi-Kai and the republicans.

The third edict created great astonishment. It had been expected that the Manchus would demand conditions which would safeguard many of their privileges, but, according to the proclamation, the surrender is unconditional. The edict informed the viceroys and provincial governors of the retirement of the throne from political power and instructed them to continue doing their duty and to preserve order throughout the land.

It declared that the step taken by the throne was in order to meet the wishes of the people.

MANCHU DYNASTY IN POWER SINCE 1644

The abdication of the Chinese throne by Pu Yi, the child Emperor, brings to and end the powerful Manchu dynasty, which has reigned in China since 1644.

The boy ruler has been on the throne since Nov. 14, 1908, when the Emperor, Kwang-Su, his uncle, died. His father, Prince Chun, was appointed regent and was the chief figure in China for three years.

Surrounded by a large number of princes of the imperial clan and Manchu officials with reactionary ideas, the regent was brought face to face with a revolutionary movement in favor of modern reforms. He endeavored to placate both parties, but ended by causing general dissatisfaction, which led to his resignation on Dec. 6, 1911.

The promise of a constitutional government made by the Dowager Empress on her deathbed in 1908 was not fulfilled in any way until May, last year. In that month an imperial edict abolished the old Grand Council, which, together with the court, held absolute power, and substituted a constitutional Cabinet.

Revolutionary ideas had been spreading in the meantime, and the Southern provinces declared against the continuation of Manchu rule and broke into open revolt. After much fighting, the revolutionists proclaimed a republic at Nanking in December and Dr. Sun Yat Sen accepted the presidency on Dec. 29.

Negotiations between the Republicans and the Imperialists followed and an armistice was arranged. This was not strictly observed, but the negotiations continued, with the result that the Manchu rulers, seeing that China proper was almost entirely in favor of the republican idea and that the outlying dependencies of Tibet, Turkestan, Mongolia and Manchuria were breaking away, decided that it was their best policy to yield to the popular demand and abdicate.

The Chinese Empire has been considered by historians the oldest in the world. Thirty-six dynasties are recorded in its annals.

SWINNEY TRIES TO OFFSET ACID TEST TO JARS OF GOLD

Star Witness for the Kimmel Side of Life Insurance Suit Declares Now That Newspapers Were Packed at Bottom of Oregon Treasure Receptacles.

SHOWN 1 JAR WOULD HOLD ALL THE COINS

He Had Said Before That Two Were Used to Carry Two Hundred $20 Gold Pieces Because One Would Not Hold Them All.

John B. Swinney, ranchman and ex-convict, in completing Monday morning his remarkable testimony in the Kimmel identity mystery and $25,000 insurance contest, made an adroit attempt to discount the "acid test" which attorneys for the New York Life Insurance Co. intend to apply to his buried gold story.

The "acid test," as it was called when Attorney John F. Green first applied it last December, consisted of measuring the number of $20 gold pieces that a half-gallon glass fruit jar would contain.

His Previous Testimony.

Swinney testified in his deposition that the 200 $20 gold pieces which he, George A. Kimmel, J. A. Johnson and R. M. Snyder dug up in an Oregon forest were contained in two half-gallon jars. The jars were not full, he said, but were so nearly full that neither of them would have contained all the money. One jar, he said, contained 96 pieces, the other 104.

After hearing this testimony, Attorney Green went to the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., carrying a half-gallon jar, and got a clerk to put 200 $20 gold pieces into it. They filled it hardly more than one-half full. This was considered a strong point in refutation of Swinney's story.

But Monday, in his final re-direct examination by Attorney Bacon, Swinney was asked whether the jars had contained anything besides the coins. He replied that in each jar, a part of a newspaper, folded so as to take considerable space, was beneath the gold pieces.

Names the Newspapers.

When asked what the newspapers were, he said they were parts of a copy of the San Francisco Argonaut, and were dated five years before the time (1898) when they were dug up.

"Isn't it a fact," demanded Attorney O'Bryan of the insurance company's counsel, when he started his second cross-examination, "that you put these newspapers in that jar this morning, since you went on the witness stand?"

"No, sir," said Swinney, without losing his composure, "I found them there. They were there all the time."

"Then why didn't you say so in your deposition?"

"You were leading me," said Swinney, in an injured tone. "Several times, when you were questioning me, you called me down for telling something you hadn't asked about, so when I got to that point, I just answered your questions, and you never asked me what was under the coins, or I would sure have told you."

Killed Kimmel's Slayer.

The finding of the jars of gold, according to Swinney's story, took place a few days before the killing of Kimmel, whose date he fixed as Aug. 14, 1898, at "two hours by sun," or before sunset. He testified Saturday, as he did last December, that Johnson killed Kimmel and that he, Swinney, then killed Johnson to save his own life and Snyder's.

The $4000 was only a small part of the sum for which they were hunting, but as Johnson was the only one who had any idea where the rest of the money was, he and Snyder then abandoned the quest, he testified, and after burying the bodies of Kimmel and Johnson in one grave, near Marshfield, Ore., they went home.

The Kimmel claimant, who will be the star witness for the insurance company in defending the suit, was not in the United States District Court at Monday's hearing. Mrs. Estelle Kimmel and her daughter, who accept Swinney's story of Kimmel's death and declare the claimant an impostor, were also absent.

Swinney's examination, which took all day Saturday, continued until nearly noon Monday. The last thing he was asked to do was to identify a picture of J. A. Johnson, furnished by Johnson's sister, Mrs. William Carlile of Meade, Kan. He did this, saying the picture, a tintype, was that of Kimmel's slayer, whom he killed in Oregon.

He repeated his former explanation of his reason for destroying the "log" which he kept of the Oregon expedition, saying his wife's nagging caused him to destroy the log and his correspondence with the late R. M. Snyder.

Judge John Kennish of the Missouri Supreme Court sat beside Judge Amidon, who is hearing the Kimmel case, for an hour at the morning session.

The reading of depositions of persons who say the claimant is not Kimmel was resumed after Swinney had been excused.

The deposition of Charles L. Wood, a banker at Niles, Mich., stated that he knew Kimmel well, and that the claimant resembles him neither in habits, features nor actions.

That the claimant, when reminded of childhood incidents which should have been present in his memory, always replied: "Just let me think that over," was asserted in the deposition of Charles Montague, Kimmel's cousin.

Montague told of the claimants recent visit to Niles, and to his meeting one day with a dentist named Ostrander.

"What has become of your fine set of teeth?" Dr. Ostrander was quoted as asking the claimant.

"They fed me on mercury in Matteawan," the reply was said to be, "and my teeth fell out."

Not Kimmel, They Say.

William A. Reddick, a manufacturer of Niles, Mich., deposed that he had known Kimmel from his youth and that he had seen the claimant. Asked if the claimant was George A. Kimmel, the witness said: "Not in my opinion."

Guy Marrs of Berrien Springs, Mich., a third cousin of Kimmel, in his deposition said that when he talked to the claimant at Niles, after his release, the claimant had no recollection of "Skip" Smith, a young woman who was cashier of a restaurant where Kimmel used to buy cigars and tarry to talk. Marrs asked the claimant if he remembered that Marrs' sister tried to teach Kimmel how to waltz. The claimant said he had no recollection, and added that he was always a good waltzer. "George Kimmel wasn't," Marrs retorted. The claimant did not remember Marrs. The witness said there was no resemblance between the claimant and Kimmel.

R. M. Snyder Jr. of Kansas City, son of the promoter whose name is connected with the Kimmel mystery in widely different ways by the accounts of both sides, arrived in St. Louis Monday. Attorney Hugh McIntosh of the New York Life said Snyder probably would not appear in court until his testimony is needed. The defense intends to prove by him that R. M. Snyder was in New York when Swinney says he was on his way from Kansas City to Oregon. The deposition of a clerk in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, is also to be used to establish the same point.

Swinney Cross-Examined.

Lawyer O'Bryan, in resuming his cross-questioning of Swinney, asked him many questions about his letters to Attorney Bacon, who represents the plaintiff, offering his testimony. The point he emphasized was the references made in the correspondence to J. A. Johnson. O'Bryan sought to show that Swinney had said nothing about Johnson until after he learned that Johnson's sister had written Bacon about his disappearance. In this way he sought to indicate that Swinney had worked Johnson into his story, as Kimmel's slayer, after he had heard of Johnson through the lawyer.

Swinney said he thought he had mentioned Johnson in his first letter to Bacon, but when the latter was shown him he saw there was no such mention, and said he wrote of Johnson in a subsequent letter.

He said that on his first interview with Bacon, he told Bacon of Johnson's sister, whose picture he had seen in Johnson's possession, and who had been employed in the Denver post office. He thought he could identify a picture of the woman if he were to see one, but said that when Bacon showed him the picture of Mrs. William Carlile of Meade, Kan., he was unable to recognize it.

The questioning then led up to Swinney's visit to the Coos Bay region of Oregon in 1905-6. That he made such a visit is accepted as a fact, and O'Bryan will probably contend that any adventures in which he took part there occurred then, and not in 1898.

He said he went to Oregon because his wife was growing irritable, and because she wanted to keep her two sons by a former marriage at home and thought she could not do this unless he went away for a few years.

Could Not Find Graves.

On that trip, he has stated, he looked for the grave where he had placed the bodies of Kimmel and Johnson, but could not find it.

O'Bryan asked him about R. M. Snyder's visit to Portland, and tried to get Swinney to make admissions which would show that he then met Snyder for the first time. Swinney said he saw Snyder then, but insisted that he knew him long before, and that he had information about his intended visit, aside from what he got through the newspapers. He said he met Snyder at the depot in Portland.

Tried Twice for Murder.

Demanding to know the number of times that the witness had been tried on various charges, O'Bryan named a catalog of crimes, and got the statement that he had been tried for murder twice, for robbery once, for assault and battery once, and for larceny never.

He said he had known R. M. Snyder 30 years.

When he came to St. Louis, last December, he said, he gave his name to a hotel clerk as John Boone, and the clerk wrote it on the register. He admitted having stopped in Kansas City and viewed the Midland Hotel, which, he testified Saturday, he left in a cab with Kimmel at the time when the banker dropped from the sight of his relatives. He said he found that the hotel had been converted into an office building, and that he gave it hardly more than a passing glance.

He had visited Arkansas City, Kan., but once in the last 25 years, he said, and that was when he went there to enlist Kimmel in the Oregon expedition.

When in St. Louis last December, he said, he read the deposition of a Kansas City detective in Bacon's office, desiring to see, he said, whether the detectives had "got on the track" of Kimmel at all. He found they had not.

When asked how he knew the day and the hour of the killing of Kimmel, he said he fixed the time in his memory by the aid of a pocket calender which R. M. Snyder showed him, and of Snyder's watch. Other dates of the expedition, he said, he reckoned from their relation to that time.

Attorney O'Bryan then closed the cross-examination by reading several pages from Swinney's deposition, made last December. The plaintiff's counsel then began the re-direct examination of Swinney.

Time of Swinney's Trip Questioned.

The lawyers for the New York Life Insurance Co., defendant in the suit, are convinced that Swinney was, at some time or other, a visitor to the Oregon forest which he described so graphically in his story of the treasure quest and the Kimmel murder. But, they say he may have been there at almost any time. His story, they point out, bears no proof that he was there at the time he says he was, in August, 1898.

Attempts to get him to name steamboats, hotels or lodging houses whose registers might afford a means of verifying his statements were met with the declaration that he had forgotten most of the names, that such persons as he remembered had since died, and that he had given an assumed name, which he had since forgotten, at the places where he had stayed.

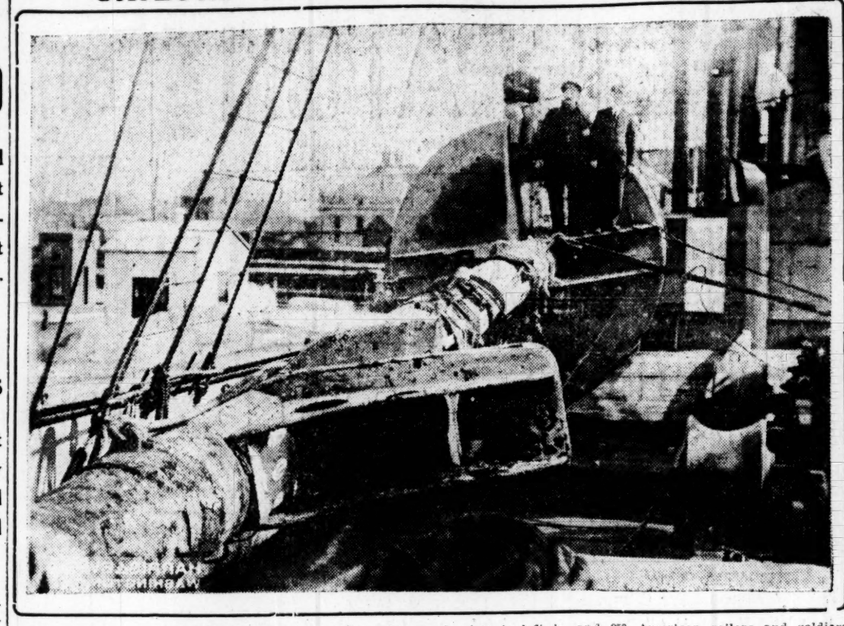

Through his unwillingness to leave a trace of his movements, he said he had not signed the assumed name himself, but had told it to clerks. He explained this caution by saying that he thought the object of his journey a doubtful one, from the standpoint of the law.

To Identify Claimant.

The defense, in its effort to establish the identity of the Kimmel claimant, formerly known in New York penal institutions as White, will use the testimony of Mrs. Mable Findley Lardner of Duluth, Minn. She testified at the second trial of the case here in October, 1910. She said Kimmel courted her, though he never proposed marriage, and that she visited the claimant in the Auburn Frison and recognized him as Kimmel by the way he shook hands with her. He took both her hands and drew her slowly toward him, she said, as Kimmel used to do. Her husband, who was Kimmel's successful rival for her hand, also identified the claimant.

Miss Mary Walker of Buffalo, formerly a schoolmate of Kimmel in Niles, Mich., was another witness who identified the claimant as Kimmel in prison. Mrs. Margy Hunt, who saw Kimmel daily for years, has testified that the man is not Kimmel.

SECTION OF MAINE'S MAST THAT WILL MARK SAILORS' GRAVES IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

HAVANA, Feb. 12.—For the first time since nightfall of Feb. 15, 1898, the hull of the battleship Maine, once one of the proudest vessels of the United States Navy, is afloat.

Water was turned into the cofferdam, built around the wreck of the warship, for the first time last night, and the newly caulked seams of the twisted hull held fast. As the water came in, the vessel righted herself, shook off the mud and again rode the sea.

It is but a pitiful mummy of the once powerful floating fortress wrecked in this harbor 14 years ago. It has been dismantled, sections of it have already been taken away and what is left is mud-encrusted and stained with sea vegetation.

Maine Welcomed by Spain.

The last time this vessel floated in Havana harbor it had come here to protect American interests after the United States had recognized the independence of Cuban patriots. The Spanish Government welcomed her with great friendliness and sent its own vessel, the Vizcaya, to pay a visit to the harbor of New York.

The Maine was led to its anchoring place in this harbor by its hosts. At sundown, Feb. 15, 1898, the Maine exchanged friendly greetings with the Spanish forts and warships. That night an external explosion sunk the Maine and 259 American sailors and soldiers perished.

The war quickly followed and the United States exacted retribution.

All of today water has been flowing into the cofferdam around the hull of the old warship. By nightfall the wreck will be raised to the harbor level, leaving nothing to be done except to break the dam and float it out to the spot in the ocean where it will be sunk forever. Then the dam will be removed and the harbor will be free of the obstruction which has hampered service for 14 years.

Water is being forced into the dam through a system of pipes, fixed at the bottom of the ship, the power being supplied from a pump which had been recovered from the wreck.

NOW IT'S THE CIGAR TO DISCREDIT CLAIMANT

HAVING cited relatives and former acquaintances of George A. Kimmel to show that the Kimmel claimant has not Kimmel's eyes, ears, nose or chin, and that his beard does not grow in the direction which Kimmel's did, Attorney Bacon Monday introduced a deposition which stated that the claimant did not hold a cigar in his mouth in the way in which Kimmel used to.

Charles Montague, a cousin of Kimmel, gave the deposition. He said the claimant, whom he saw in prison, resembled Kimmel only in height, and that he sat, walked and stood differently, and held his cigar in his mouth differently. He did not illustrate, in giving the deposition, the ways of holding the cigar in which the two differed.

MADDEN ASKED TO BE RELIEVED OF LEWIS CASE

Assistant's Attitude Revealed When Cortelyou, Former Chief, Tells of Suspicions.

COMMITTEE STOPS TILT

Then House Members Exchange Partisan Thrusts Over Harper's and Wilson.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Former Postmaster-General George B. Cortelyou and Edwin C. Madden, once his Third Assistant, but now representing the Lewis Publishing Co., of St. Louis, engaged in a lively colloquy before the House Committee on Expenditures in the Postoffice Department today, when the examination of Cortelyou on the Lewis case was resumed.

The disagreement that existed between the former Postmaster-General and Madden, in the action taken in the debarring of the company publications from the mails, precipitated the verbal conflict.

Suspicions Aroused.

Cortelyou said there were certain circumstances surrounding the administration of Madden's office that had aroused his suspicions.

"Didn't I ask that this Lewis controversy be taken out of my hands?" asked Madden.

"I think so," replied Cortelyou.

"I made that request because I felt that it was intended to give the Lewis company a raw deal," exclaimed Madden.

Chairman Stops Tilt.

The tilt was stopped by the chairman. The discussion of advertising carried in the Lewis publications brought out some partisan exchanges between members.

Representative Austin, Republican, asked Representative McCoy, Democrat, of New Jersey if the advertising of Gov. Wilson in Harper's Weekly had been paid for.

"If you can answer that, you will settle a mooted question," replied McCoy.

Whipple Gives Out Taft's Letters on Accused Major

er B. Ray of illicit relations with a certain married woman, in respect to which I was consulted by you at the time the charge was made, and also at the time the resolution was passed. I saw Mr. Sweet in New Haven and told him that I deprecated its being brought out, as I thought it would tend to blast the reputation of a married woman who, as I understand, was living happily with her husband, and was not probably what the committee was searching for.

I asked him to see Mr. Covington, who had prompted the resolution, and find if that part of the record might be omitted.

"I understand from the Secretary of War and also from Gen. Wood that Mr. Sweet had consented to an omission of that part of the record, unless on its being brought to the attention of the committee a full record was desired and that in accordance with that understanding, the particular pages of the record were omitted from the return until further notice was received from Mr. Sweet.

"I do not desire any misunderstanding and I wish that the whole record shall go to the committee if the committee desires it and to know what the circumstances are. I will ask you, therefore, to take the pages of the record to Mr. Hay, the chairman of the Military Committee, and to Mr. Sweet and show them the pages and such correspondence, confidential and otherwise, referred to in the record.

Couple Living Happily

"You have also a letter from me, written July last, when you consulted me about this matter, which I intended to be confidential and not to put on the files, but I have no objection to your showing that letter to Mr. Hay and Mr. —— and if they desire to bring that out you may make it a part of the record. You will please explain to them the circumstances that, according to your understanding with me and the fact that Mr. and Mrs. —— were living together happily and the appeals which he has made to you to withdraw his original letter in which he made the charge, and then leave to these gentlemen the decision as to what course he shall take. Very sincerely,

WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Messrs Sweet and Covington referred to in the President's letters are representatives in Congress from Michigan and Maryland, respectively.

General Whipple testified Saturday that President Taft had "suppressed" charges against Major Ray.

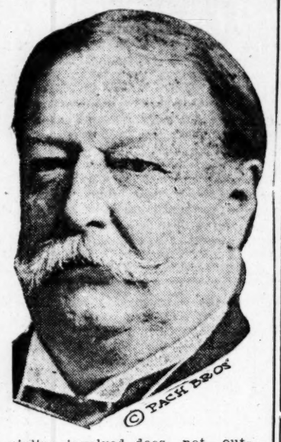

ROBBER PLEADS WITH MAN

Intended Victim Runs and Is Begged in Vain to Stop.

Goff glanced at the revolver in the robber's hand and ran. The robber called upon him to stop and when he refused the robber pleaded with him. Goff kept on running.

TAFT'S CONFIDENTIAL LETTER SHIELDING "A WOMAN'S NAME"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.

ONE of the letters of President Taft to Paymaster-General Whipple put in evidence before the House Committee on Expenditures in the War Department and made public today, follows:

"Beverly, July 5, 1910 (Personal and Confidential). Dear Gen. Whipple—I have read the letter of —— regarding Paymaster Ray, which you have shown me because in times past I had had a personal interest in the welfare of Maj. Ray. I have no relations with Maj. Ray that prevent my directing you to take the same disciplinary action in respect to him as in the case of any of your subordinates.

"It seems to me that it would be wise to send Gen. Garlington or a trusted assistant to inspect Ray's accounts and those of his clerk as well as the charges —— makes, that if the facts turn out to be as —— states to separate —— from Ray at once.

While Ray's conduct, if charges are true, could subject him to the severest condemnation, there seems from —— language and telegram to be such a condonation by him and his wife that it would be well to avert the demoralizing scandal for the army involved in the courtmartial proceedings which would place a stigma on —— and Mrs. —— which they could never recover from.

Ray could be told that his superiors knew his fault and have provided against it, and in the interest of his victims and the army it was deemed best not to present it to the board on the condition that he avoid such conduct in the future.

"These suggestions are on the assumption that —— charges are true and that Gen. Garlington knows them to be so. I do not favor courtmartial proceedings in such cases where there is condonation, in order to prevent scandal. The army suffers, the parties suffer and only the prurient readers of such trials receive any advantage. The discipline involved does not outweigh in its benefit for the army the injuries to the prestige of the army and the demoralization it causes.

"You can show this letter to Gen. Garlington and Gen. Oliver, but I would prefer that it do not go on your official files. The course I suggest is the one it seems to me is best under the circumstances.

"Maj. Ray did me some service of a political character years ago, at the instance of my brother, and he is disposed to assume much, too much, on that score. I wish him treated as any other officer in the service and I would make the same suggestion as to any army officer in a similar case.

"Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

$52,000 IN GEMS, SENT BY BOYCE TO MRS. SNEAD, SEIZED

Shipment From Man Who Ran Away With Texas Banker's Wife Is Held Up at Border.

By Associated Press.

CROOKSTON, Minn., Feb. 12.—Jewels to the value of $52,000 shipped by express by A. G. Boyce Jr. to Mrs. Lena Snead, wife of J. B. Snead to Mrs. Lena Snead, (Tex.) banker, on trial at Fort Worth, Tex., for the murder of Capt. A. G. Boyce Sr., have been seized by the customs officers at St. Vincent, Minn., on the Canadian border.

The gems are being held by the customs officers, it is said, because a certain document, the nature of which has not been made known, but which it is said would complete the evidence that the jewels were purchased and owned in the United States, is lacking.

The jewels have been placed in the vault of the First National Bank at St. Vincent, and if the necessary document is not forthcoming within a day or so, they will be shipped to the custom office at St. Paul for safekeeping.

Snead Trial Interrupted When Man Ends Life at Courthouse

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 12.—The trial of John Beal Snead, charged with the murder of Capt. A. G. Boyce, was temporarily interrupted today when it was learned in the courtroom that a man named Taylor, a Confederate veteran, had killed himself near an entrance to the courthouse. An hour later the prosecution resumed the cross-examination of William H. Atwell, the United States District Attorney, who had acted as Sneed's attorney before the killing of Boyce.

3 WOMEN, ONE 72, FLEE FROM BLAZE BY A FIRE ESCAPE

Mrs. George Carroll Descends Three Stories at Von-Del Apartments.

Mrs. George Carroll, 72 years old, descended a three-story fire escape Monday morning to escape flames which, rolling in a few minutes from the basement to the roof of the Von-Del Apartments, 5889 Von Versen avenue, cut off escape by way of the stairway. Two other women fled to safety down the fire escape, an iron stairway on the outside rear wall of the building.

Mrs. H. K. Taylor, who was alone in the second-floor apartment on the west side, was alarmed by a cry of "Fire." Opening the door, she saw the staircase filled with smoke and fire. Becoming excited, she flung open a window and threw her purse, which was empty, into the street. Then, seizing a box filled with puffs, rats and switches, she descended with this sole salvage down the fire escape.

Laundress Sings Near Fire.

Miss Mildred Mayfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mayfield, was the only one of her family at home. Although she discovered that the stairway was blazing, she calmly exchanged her negligee for a street dress before descending the fire escape.

The apartment on the east side of the first floor is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed E. Squiers Jr. Mrs. Squiers was alone with her 4-year-old son, Edward, and carried him out into the back yard through the rear door.

$1-A-DAY PENSION REJECTED FOR BILL GIVING $24,000,000

Senate Committee Votes Down Sherwood Measure, 10 to 4, Adopts Smoot Plan.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Sherwood so-called "dollar-a-day" pension bill was rejected today by the Senate Committee on Pensions and another measure, which would involve an annual expenditure of $24,000,000, proposed as a substitute by Senator Smoot of Utah, was adopted. Senators Brown of Nebraska and Curtis of Kansas gave notice that in the Senate they would press the Sherwood bill as a substitute for the Smoot bill. The Sherwood bill passed the House.

Senator Smoot's estimate of $24,000,000 as the cost of his plan is based on the Pension Bureau's compilation of age and length of service of the veterans. The Sherwood bill, according to the Pension Bureau, would have cost about $75,000,000 a year.

The Smoot bill, adopted by a vote of 12 to 2, after the Sherwood bill had been voted down, 10 to 4, embodies provisions to pension Civil War veterans, 62 years old, who served 90 days or more, and any Mexican War veteran who served 60 days or more. The Mexican War veterans would receive $30 a month.

The Civil War veterans would be put on a graduated scale of from $13 a month for 90-day veterans 62 years old, to $30 a month for veterans 75 years old, who served three years or more.

Radiation vs. refrigeration

Did it ever strike you how "way behind the times" your family must appear to be to your friends who have modernly heated homes when they call and find your folks gathered closely around a stove in one room, while the other rooms are shut off from use—avoided because they are as cold and damp as a refrigerator?

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS offer the only way of reliably and genially warming every nook, hallway and room of the house—change it into a home. The deep, large fuel chamber of an IDEAL Boiler is one of the strong features for producing its great superiority in fuel saving.

A deep fire is easily proven best as compared with the shallow fire-pots of old-fashioned heating methods—just as a big, full cake of ice to fill the refrigerator box will give far longer, steadier results than would the frequent throwing in of a handful of cracked ice.

A No.1-25-W IDEAL Boiler and 575 sq. ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $230, were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include costs of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

IDEAL Boiler fuel-pots have air grooves or channels in which the air and coal-gases thoroughly mix, as in a modern gas or oil burner, thus extracting every bit of the heat from the fuel. None of the heat is wasted up the chimney.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators require less attention than a stove; a child can run them. They reduce house-cleaning one-half, and save wear and tear on carpets, draperies, and furnishings. The pure, warm air protects the family health.

Better at first to omit the useless inner doors, extra chimneys, mantels, fancy lamps that are never lighted, books which are never read, vases which contain no flowers, etc. The savings brought about by these outfits will assist to pay for fine furnishings. You will need our book (free), "Ideal Heating"—it contains the most valuable heating information, which every owner should have at hand.

IDEAL Boilers are safer and easier to run than a stove, and their cleanliness reduces housework one-half. They will last as long as the building and need no repairs. Insist on their use.

We also sell the Arco Wand Vacuum Cleaner—to set in cellar—with its iron suction pipes leading to all floors. It is the new way, the ideally correct method—because all the dirt, dust, lint, threads, insect eggs, etc., are drawn through the iron suction pipes to the big sealed dust-bucket in cellar. Exhausts the foul, germ-laden air (after the dust and trash have been removed) into the chimney-flue or out doors. The Arco Wand is a powerful, permanent machine that needs no attention, and becomes part of the building, like the heating or plumbing. Running cost adds but a few dimes to your monthly electricity bill. Ask for catalog, giving complete data. With utmost simplicity the suction pipes are put into old or new houses, flats, stores, schools, churches, banks, theaters, hospitals, barber shops, court houses, libraries, garages, etc., etc. Ask for catalog of ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaners.

500 REPUBLICANS GATHER HERE FOR TWO BIG MEETINGS

Taft and Roosevelt Headquarters Opened by Missouri Supporters of Candidates.

DINNER TONIGHT FOR 300

Young Republicans and State Committee Won't Make Presidential Indorsement.

The sentiment for Theodore Roosevelt for president is as strong in New England and the Eastern states as in Missouri and the Western states, according to Gov. Hadley, who attended the Roosevelt conference in Chicago, Saturday. Gov. Hadley came to St. Louis Monday to look after the interests of Roosevelt in the meetings of the Association of Young Republicans and the State Committee at the Planters Hotel.

"The Chicago conference was attended by eight governors, two ex-governors, half a dozen state chairmen and representatives from 24 states," said Gov. Hadley. "The New England and Eastern representatives told us that among the people Roosevelt is a three to one choice over President Taft, and in some places a ten to one choice.

Machines for Taft.

"I had expected that Taft would be strong in the Eastern states and was much surprised to find that Col. Roosevelt is such a strong favorite there. The delegates at the Chicago meeting said that in some places the party machinery is being used in favor of Taft, and that where it is he will get some delegates, but that where the choice is left to the people Roosevelt will win.

"I have said that Roosevelt will get two-thirds of the delegates from Missouri. I think perhaps he will get more than that. There are three districts outside of St. Louis in which Roosevelt men are making no fight, but I am not going to name those districts, as every time I say that a particular district likely will go for Taft I am flooded with letters from my friends saying that such is not a fact."

Headquarters Opened.

More than five hundred Republicans from all parts of the State gathered at the Planters Hotel Monday, to attend the State Committee meeting and the meeting of the Association of Young Republicans.

Roosevelt headquarters were opened on the parlor floor of the hotel, and Taft headquarters on the fifth floor. State Game Warden Tolerton, president of the Roosevelt League of Missouri, had printed a very large sign, which he hung over the headquarters, next to the presidential headquarters of Speaker Champ Clark. The sign read: "Roosevelt Headquarters; Taft men welcome."

E. L. Morse of Excelsior Springs and Otto Stifel of St. Louis were in charge of the Taft headquarters. The adherents of both Taft and Roosevelt are preparing to make an active campaign for their favorites throughout the State. A hard fight will be made by the Federal machine to deliver the State to Taft, while the State machine, under the leadership of Gov. Hadley, will fight to control the convention for Roosevelt.

Trains Delay Meeting.

The meeting of the State Committee, scheduled for 10 a. m., was delayed on account of the lateness of trains from Kansas City and St. Joseph, on which Chairman Charles D. Morris and other members of the committee were passengers.

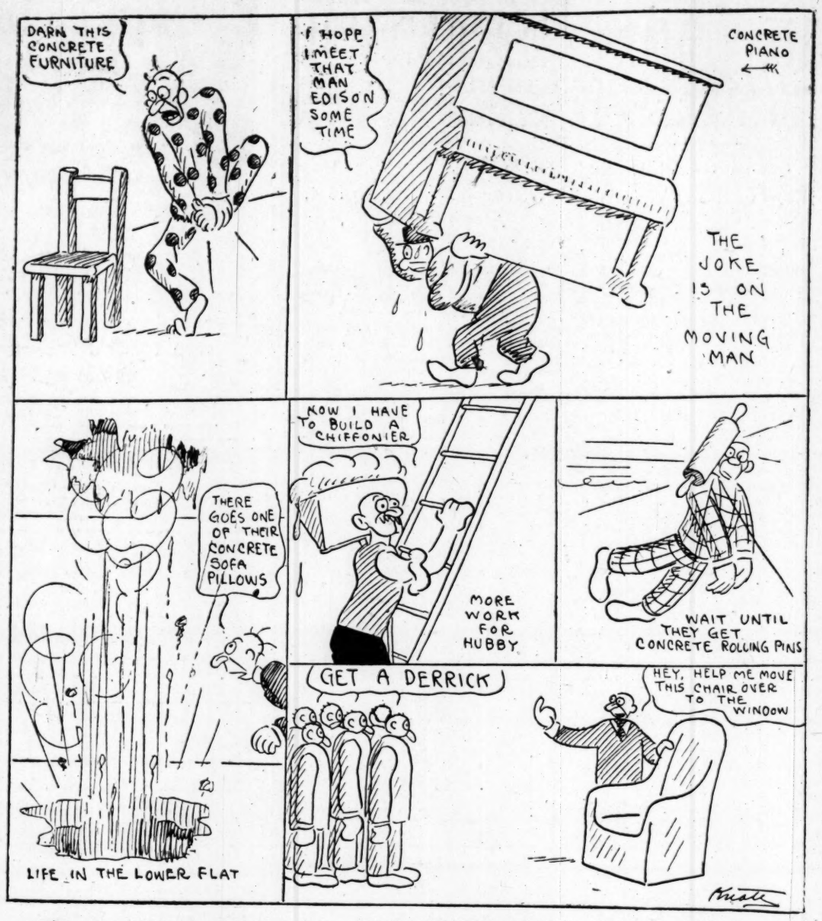

The Young Republicans will give a dinner Monday night at the Planters Hotel. Arrangements have been made for the entertainment of more than 300 guests. Gov. Hadley and Gov. Deneen of Illinois will speak.

No move will be made by either the State Committee or the Young Republicans to indorse any candidate for President. The Republican organizations are taking no part in the presidential fight, having adopted the policy of not indorsing candidates.

Gov. Hadley will submit to the State Committee eight propositions, which he wishes to have submitted to the voters of the State through the initiative and referendum.

LAW VIOLATED IN 53 BOILER ROOMS AT CITY SCHOOLS

Commissioner Testifies at House Inquiry Unlicensed Engineers Are Employed.

Only two licensed engineers are employed by the oBard of Edpcation to operate the boiler plants in the 55 grammar schools of St. Louis, according to the testimony of Public School Building Commissioner Toensfeld, before the Legislation Committee of the House of Delegates Monday.

"I am frank to say to you," said Delegate Ittner, a member of the committee, to Tonesfeld, "that in 53 schools in this city you are violating the law by having the boilers operated by other than licensed engineers."

Delegate Hall then asked: "If an explosion occurred in one of these plants operated by an unlicensed engineer in violation of the city ordinance, who would be responsible?"

"I suppose the Board of Education would be responsible," answered Toensfeld.

Wishes to Think of Subject

"Don't you think," continued Hall, "that you ought to exercise greater caution in the matter of protecting the lives of the children in the schools of this city?"

Toensfeld answered that he wished to think over that question.

Rhodes E. Cave, president of the Board of Education, was the first witness before the committee. He said he construed the city ordinance requiring that boiler plants should be operated by licensed engineers to include only the boilers used for power purposes only.

"I don't think the ordinance intends to include boilers used for heating purposes only," said Cave. "The boilers in the schools are used to furnish heat, and the pressure is never above 25 pounds. In only a few of the schools is power supplied for the operation of the ventilating fans."

Testifying relative to the charge made by the Engineers' Union that weights are hung on the safety valves of the boilers, Cave said that if such charges were found to be true the janitors responsible would be discharged.

Cave said the boiler plants are operated by the janitors of the schools, and that he did not think it necessary to go to the expense of employing licensed engineers for such work. Commissioner Toensfeld said the two licensed engineers were employed by accident, having taken the examination for janitors. All the public school boiler plants are operated by unlicensed engineers under permits issued by the City Boiler Inspector, Toensfeld said. Inspector Hoffman said Saturday he had followed the precedents of his office by granting permits to the board to operate the plants by using unlicensed men.

BANK DIRECTORS MUST MEET WITH U. S. EXAMINERS

Murray's New Order Followed by His Criticism of Non-Resident Boards.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Comptroller of the Currency Murray today ordered that boards of directors of national banks hereafter shall meet the Federal bank examiners at any examination to discuss the affairs of the institutions, especially their loans and discounts. In the large cities where the assembling of the directors may cause considerable inconvenience, the examiners have been authorized to use their discretion in enforcing the new order unless some condition is found in the bank deserving criticism.

Carrying out the spirit of this regulation the Comptroller today advised about 500 banks in various parts of the country that their course in recently electing as a majority of their boards, directors who are not residents of the places where the banks are located, was "objectionable."

"The directors," he said, "are not conveniently available for monthly board meetings; they cannot meet to pass on all paper purchased or discounted; they cannot be readily convened should urgent necessity arises; and they cannot meet the national bank examiner when the bank is examined."

ROOSEVELT IS TO REPLY TO URGENT PLEA THAT HE RUN

Definite Statement, Over His Signature, to Follow Governors' Chicago Action.

TO UPHOLD PROGRESSIVES

Colonel Spends Sunday Conferring With Friends and Chopping Down Trees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt will make a public response to the resolutions passed by the conference of some of his friends at Chicago on Saturday, demanding that he accept a nomination. It will be a message to the progressive Republicans of the country over his own signature, but will not be ready for several days. Roosevelt will not act hastily, but he realizes that the stand taken by the eight Republican governors has brought about a situation to which he must give serious consideration.

Roosevelt was evidently pleased with the action of his friends at Chicago. In addition to the eight governors of Republican states on record in favor of his nomination, it is learned here that six other Republican governors will declare for him as soon as he makes public his response to the message of the Chicago conference.

Johnson Delays Indorsement.

Friends of Roosevelt say Gov. Johnson of California would have joined in the message did he not feel that he should not make public his attitude until he has had an opportunity to talk with Senator La Follette and tell him personally that the Republicans of the Pacific Coast believe Roosevelt to be the strongest candidate.

When the former President was seen at Sagamore Hill last night, he had just returned from a three hours' wood chopping expedition. He had walked six miles to church and back, had entertained at luncheon Lieutenant General Sir Baden-Powell, George B. Pratt, James E. West and Mortimer L. Schiff, who talked about the boy scout movement, had written several chapters upon animals in Africa for a catalogue in the Smithsonian Institute and had cut down several trees. In knickerbockers, with ax in hand, he greeted reporters with the announcement that he would not talk politics.

It is generally understood by his friends here that his reply to the message of the Chicago conference will be a strong reiteration of progressive doctrines and possibly one or two new suggestions. No doubt is expressed that he will make it clear that he will feel his duty to support to the limit any effort to make effective the progressive policies.

Plan to Win Pennsylvania.

There is a report here that Pennsylvania friends of the former President are in close communication with Republican leaders throughout New York State, and that a working agreement is likely to be reached, without definite action by Roosevelt, that will result in a State delegation for him.

It is the belief of his friends that his renomination is certain, if he can hold one-half of the New York State delegates, and they believe that, as the strength of his support in other sections of the country becomes evident, the New York delegation can be held.

Roosevelt to Get Medal as a Hunter.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt is to get the special grand medal of the Societe d'Acclimation. M. Perier, director of the Museum of Natural History in Paris and president of the society, in announcing the award at the annual meeting eulogized Col. Roosevelt and described him as "more naturalist than hunter, eager to learn and skillful to depict the habits of the animals he was stalking." He referred also to the great work accomplished by Col. Roosevelt when he occupied the presidential chair in saving what was left of the magnificent fauna of the United States.

Roosevelt to Speak in Ohio on Feb. 21

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT will address the delegates to Ohio's fourth constitutional convention on Wednesday, Feb. 21. The former President accepted an invitation to speak, in a letter received today by C. B. Galbreath, secretary of the convention.

In his letter of acceptance, Col. Roosevelt says:

"I have been declining all invitations to speak but this seems to me not so much an invitation to speak as a request that I help the representatives of a great State who are engaged in doing the greatest and most fundamental piece of governmental work on behalf of the citizens of that State; and under such circumstances it is both a duty and a pleasure to accept."

SPECIAL SESSION FOR PRIMARY LAW

Gov. Osborn of Michigan to Call Legislature to Give People Presidential Vote.

By Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 12.—Gov. Chase S. Osborn announced today that he is preparing a call for a special session of the Legislature, to convene Monday, Feb. 26. The Governor's action is said to have been the result of urgent requests by Michigan voters for a presidential primary election. In the call the Governor says in part:

"This is an era in this country during which government by the people is becoming a reality. The tendency is to have the governmental function exercised on the part of the people as directly as possible.

"In Michigan at this moment there exists an extraordinary condition and occasion which have never been paralleled. Thousands of voters demand an opportunity to vote directly on presidential candidate. No candidate and no party should wish to obtain a privilege through a minority.

"Believing fully that it is the right of the citizens of Michigan, irrespective of political affiliation, immediately to have a presidential preference primary law, I have decided to convene the Legislature in special session Monday, Feb. 26, at noon, for that purpose."

Wilson Leads Clark in Oklahoma Primary Conventions.

OKLAHOMA, Ok., Feb. 12.—Unofficial returns to the Oklahoman from 46 of the 76 Oklahoma counties in which primary conventions were held, indicated that Woodrow Wilson would control 25 and Champ Clark 14 of the county conventions.

The county conventions next Saturday will elect delegates to the State Democratic convention, which, on Feb. 22, will elect delegates to the national convention. The 25 counties will have 187 delegates in the State convention and the 14 138. Seven counties with 58 delegates are considered doubtful.

Cook County Democratic Marching Club Going to Baltimore.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The Cook County Democratic Marching Club has made final plans for attending the Democratic national convention at Baltimore.

At least 300 members of the organization are expected to depart from Chicago on a special train on June 18.

While there the club members will sleep on a boat which has been chartered. The trip is a part of the plan for the annual pleasure tour of the club.

Youth Barred From Fire House Says Life Has No Charm for Him Now.

Herbert Leinard, 22 years old, of Maplewood, telephoned to Clayton Monday that if he didn't feel better by night he would kill himself. Constables were detailed to watch him.

Leinard has been a hanger-on at the Maplewood Volunteer Fire Department headquarters. Saturday night he was ordered away from there. After telling everybody he met that he was going to kill himself, he went to a drug store to buy carbolic acid. The druggist sold him a harmless substitute. NO DEALS MADE IN WITHDRAWAL OF FOLK CANDIDACY

Managers Say They Don't Care Whether His Friends Are Sent to Baltimore.

Campaign managers for former Gov. Folk, who negotiated the compromise with Speaker Champ Clark by which Folk retired from the presidential contest in Missouri, declared Monday that no deal of any kind with respect to the governorship or delegates at large to the national convention had been made with the Clark managers.

The Folk managers declared they realized the former Governor would be beaten in the county conventions to be held throughout the State Monday and the primaries in St. Louis and Kansas City, and that Clark's acceptance of the Bryan proposition to divide the delegation equally between Folk and Clark gave Folk an opportunity to retire gracefully from the contest.

Lon Sanders, president of the Missouri Democratic League, organized to promote the presidential candidacy of Folk, declared Monday he was through with politics. He said the Folk men proposed to make no further contest before the Joplin convention, and were not greatly concerned whether any of Folk's friends were named as delegates to the Baltimore convention.

Vandiver's Mind Not Made Up.

W. D. Vandiver, who went to Washington to act as a peace messenger between Clark and Folk, said Monday there was no discussion of the governorship or delegates at large to the national convention with Senator Stone or the Missouri congressmen. Vandiver is a prospective candidate for Governor, but said he had not fully determined whether he would make the contest.

There are two candidates for Governor from Pike County—the home of Speaker Clark. They are David A. Ball and Attorney-General Major, both friends of Clark. The Democratic machine throughout the State, which centered upon Clark for the purpose of eliminating Folk from Missouri politics, is backing the candidacy of Major, with a view also of eliminating Ball.

"All that I know about the deal between Folk and Clark is what appeared in their statements issued Saturday," said Sanders. "I am satisfied, however, that there was no agreement as to anything else."

The St. Louis primary for the election of 216 delegates to the Joplin convention Feb. 20 was held in each of the 28 wards of St. Louis Monday afternoon. The polls opened at 1 p. m. and close at 5 p. m. As there is no contest, only Clark delegations having been filed, a light vote was cast. The primary was held under the jurisdiction of the Democratic City Committee.

Conventions were held in virtually all counties of the State. The Folk managers, after the withdrawal of their candidate, sent out telegrams requesting their workers in the State to stop the contest.

No More Hair On Your Face Neck And Arms

Superfluous hair can be permanently removed only if you use a preparation that can come in direct contact with the hair root. This must be a liquid, because the pores of the skin cannot absorb a solid compound such as powders, pastes, etc. El-Rado is a liquid that dissolves hair as quickly as warm water dissolves sugar, enters the pores of the skin and at once retards the growth of the hair until its use is no longer required. For these reasons and because its use is of decided benefit to the skin, El-Rado is the only preparation for destroying Superfluous Hair endorsed by the Medical Profession. Stop experimenting—get a bottle of El-Rado and let it prove to your own satisfaction every claim we make for it.

WOMAN DELIVERS "THE GAMBLERS" ONE "BIG PUNCH"

It Comes in the Second Act and Jane Cowl There Insures Play's Success.

HAS A GRIPPING SCENE

As a Tortured and Misjudged Wife She Does Emotional Work of Much Power.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

"THE GAMBLERS," which began its Garrick engagement before a crowded house Sunday evening, is a Charles Klein melodrama of "high finance" that depends upon one big "punch" for success.

This punch is delivered in the second act. Jane Cowl as Catherine Darwin, wife of a man whom she doesn't love, delivers it.

It is effectively delivered, even though it's a punch from the shoulder of improbability, so to speak.

The young president of a chain of banks who has broken the Federal law and is in the shadow of the penitentiary attempts to steal from the house of the Prosecuting Attorney certain papers that incriminate him and his confederates.

The Prosecuting Attorney is the unloved husband and the young banker is the man whom his wife really loves.

The banker-burglar is discovered by the wife. There's a big scene between them, the wife being reluctant to expose him, yet feeling that she should be loyal to her unloved husband's interests.

They are interrupted by the arrival of the husband himself, who places the worst possible construction upon the midnight presence of the young banker in his home. He thereupon sets his wife in the pillory and proceeds to torture her with a grilling cross-examination.

It's a cruel and relentless inquisition. It ends with the flaming rebellion of the shamed and sorely insulted wife, who hurls defiance at her husband and openly becomes an ally of the man whom he is striving to send to prison. The second-act curtain falls upon this declaration of revolt.

And the hit of the play is scored then and there. Jane Cowl scores it. Her playing of the young wife is very tense and moving. It causes one to forget the scene's improbability and to forgive other improbabilities that precede and follow it. She contrives, for one big moment, at least, to grip the playgoing heart with a very effective emotional appeal, holding her audience absorbed in the scene's dramatic significance.

Playwright Charles Klein is under a heavy obligation to Player Jane Cowl.

Also, in varying degrees, to Orme Caldara, who plays Wilbur Emerson, the young banker; to Charles Stevenson, cast as James Darwin, the prosecuting attorney; to George Backus, Wallace Erskine, DeWitt C. Jennings and Fred W. Strong, who play the "banker group" associated with Wilbur Emerson, one member of which is his innocent father, all of whom do quite clever work. These, and certain others, push Mr. Klein's play onward with much vigor.

But it's Jane Cowl whose Catherine Darwin is the vital spark of the play. Miss Cowl puts glowing fire into the character. There are moments when a slurred enunciation mars her work somewhat, but, as a whole, she sends the emotionalism of the part across the footlights with convincing power. It is, of necessity, a purely theatric achievement, the great note of true realism being absent, but it counts for entertainment, all the same.

Some day this Jane Cowl will win star honors.

But not in "The Gamblers." When the last curtain falls on young Emerson about to go to jail, and on young Mrs. Darwin, about to get a divorce, looking forward to that future day when they shall become husband and wife, one realizes that Charles Klein's latest melodrama sounds too many false notes ever to lift anybody into genuine stardom, no matter how good the work that is done.

In the meantime, however, it has been distinctly interesting.

LONG COLD SPELL TO BE BROKEN THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The most severe and protracted cold spell of many years probably will be broken this week and the unusual winter, which has partially paralyzed transportation on land and sea, taken many lives and caused suffering in all parts of the country, will give way to more seasonable temperatures.

Observers of the Weather Bureau do not promise there will be no more cold waves this winter, but they predict that the next week or 10 days will be the forerunner of a spell of moderate weather.

Since the last week in December, save for short periods, in all the country east of the Rocky Mountains new records for extreme low temperatures have been set. While it was extremely cold in the East, temperatures were above normal on the Pacific slope.

At times below zero was recorded as far south as Tennessee, Arkansas, Northern Texas and Oklahoma, and frosts were recorded in Miami, Fla., where they rarely occur.

Lake Superior is reported frozen over from shore to shore, something never heretofore recorded. In February the mercury in Sault Ste. Marie has touched 36 below and at Northfield, Vt., 26 below, while in San Francisco it has never been colder than 46 degrees above.

There are no indications at the present time of a general storm to cross the country. The precipitation for the week probably will be generally light except in the North Pacific states, where more than the normal rainfall will occur.

'LET GEORGE DO IT' A LIVELY CARTOON MUSICAL COMEDY

Spirit of the George McManus' Pictures Is Retained in the Play.

A. Tuffold Knutt is about the only person who has anything on George in George McManus' cartoon comedy, "Let George Do It," as played by George P. Murphy as George George, with James Dubois as the Georges Georges, who occasions all the mixup at the American Theater this week, opening with Sunday's matinee. If there is anything in the shape of mistaken identity and mixed personality that is overlooked and needs adding let George do it, for things keep moving so rapidly one can hardly keep up with the moving story, as poor old George gets it handed to him in real McManus cartoon style.

Like the cartoons in the Post-Dispatch and New York World, some of the things George has to do are not half bad, while in others he takes the place of the dog on which everything is tried. When a husband is needed for a girl with a fortune they get George; when it is necessary to put someone out of the way, George gets the job; when a wife is needed for George, poor old George must be his own wife and listen to the confidences of a bevy of pretty girls. George is in clover one moment and in stripes the next; he is Dr. Knutt or I Seldom Ketchum, the detective; he makes love or repairs gas pipes; he sings a hard luck story and turns it into a song of joy. George Murphy visualizes the cartoon at times and always is within the spirit of the comedy.

Besides the humorous feature of the cartoon play there is an unusually bright lot of songs and a chorus of lively young women who make George's life bitter or sweet, as the needs of the play require. "Night Time's the Right Time to Spoon With the Girl You Love" is the principal song number, first sung as a duet by Iva Irby and Russell Brush and then worked into the big feature ensemble of the play.

"The Dramatic Rag," danced by Leona Stevens, James Dubois and the chorus, is the latest thing in the rag dance craze, introducing a little dramatic nonsense with a lot of lively dance motions. There are a number of other clever dances, tuneful songs and clever people. To mention one would mean to mention all, so we'll let George do it.

Stomach in Your Vest Pocket

Tablets That Have the "Stomach-Power" of a Real Stomach —Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Trial Package Sent Free to Prove It.

When your stomach's overworked —and the average person's stomach is overworked a good part of the time—take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and give the stomach a week or a month off. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do more than assist digestion—they actually digest the food themselves, because they contain only the natural elements of the digestive fluids.

Coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, belching, flatulency, bloat—all the symptoms of digestive troubles disappear quickly when these tablets are used. They are not a cure for anything but dyspepsia and kindred complaints. But they have brought relief to more sufferers from digestive diseases than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions put together.

The stomach does the heaviest work of any of the bodily organs, yet it's the one we treat with the least regard. We eat too much of the wrong kind of food at any time. The patient stomach stands such treatment as long as it can and then it rebels. You get notice of the rebellion in the shape of the gases and pains caused by undigested, fermenting food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will put the stomach right again in short order, and enable you to eat what you want when you want it. Carry them around with you; they are an actual substitute for a weakened, "all-in" stomach. They act in a hurry when you want relief; they act quickly, promptly, safely and naturally in digesting your food, just as Nature does herself; they bring the stomach back to normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold and recommended by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 a box. If you would like a trial package we will send you one, free, on receipt of your name and address. Write F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MAN, 61, HANGS HIMSELF

Helps Wife With Work, Then Ends Life While She Is Away.

Leo Branstetter, 61 years old, 2012 De Kalb street, helped his wife wash dishes Sunday, so she could hurry to the home of a neighbor to spend the evening. When she returned home at 10:30 p. m., Mrs. Branstetter found him dead. He had hanged himself with a small rope from a nail in the kitchen wall.

The man had been out of work. He threatened to hang himself last fall, the wife says, but she took a rope away from him and laughed at him. He was the father of four children, of whom one, John Branstetter, 25 years old, a United Railways employe, lives at the family home.

Woman Who Longed for Little Daughter Will Recover.

Mrs. Minnie Macker, 32 years old, of 506 South Broadway, said at the city hospital Monday she took creosote Sunday because she longed for her 8-year-old daughter Gladys, whom she had not seen for a year. She says her husband, John Macker, took the child to Quincy, Ill., last February after a family quarrel.

Mrs. Macker drank the poison while visiting her sister, Mrs. Emma Chapman of 1514 O'Fallon street. She will recover.

BREAKS UP A SEVERE COLD IN JUST A FEW HOURS AND CONTAINS NO QUININE.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.—ADV.

DECEPTION IS ALLEGED

"I'm Not Protecting Fools," Secretary Wilson Is Reported to Have Said.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Members of the Moss Committee of the House of Representatives said today that, though they have only scratched the surface, they are dumbfounded by the revelations as to the exploitation of the Florida Everglades.

Sensational evidence is in store, they assert, and they add that the inquiry will proceed until the country is fully informed. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and other high Government officials will be questioned about this huge swamp land promotion project by which millions of dollars have been obtained and are being obtained from small investors all over the country.

Here is the history of the whole vast scheme according to testimony so far gathered by the Moss Committee:

More than sixty years ago the Everglades were ceded to Florida by the United States Government. The region contained 4,000,000 acres, most of which is covered by from one to fifteen feet of water. The agreement was that Florida should devote to its school fund the revenue from the Everglades, if they were rented or sold. After many different reports had been made as to the feasibility of draining the region and the probable value of the lands if drained, Hamilton Disston, Philadelphia saw maker, undertook the first actual work of reclamation. The Florida Internal Improvement Board, which had charge of the swamps, agreed to pay him 25 cents an acre for drainage. He did not get far with the project. It took years to settle the Disston claim against the State.

Broward Reclamation Booster.

The reclamation of the Everglades did not get another boost until Napoleon B. Broward was elected Governor of Florida. Reclamation had been one of his battle cries in the campaign and he rehabilitated the project after he got to office. Broward and former Gov. Jennings, a cousin of W. J. Bryan, controlled the Internal Improvement Board. The first result of their agitation was the sale of some small tracts of the swamp at from $2 to $3 an acre.

At about that time Maj. J. O. Wright, then an engineer of the United States Agricultural Department, was sent to Florida by congressional resolution, to report on the feasibility of draining the Everglades. He also was scheduled to report on the probable agricultural value of the reclaimed lands.

Wright spent many months in the region in 1906 and 1907. While he was there the State of Florida began to dredge for canals through the swamp and agreed to spend $1.50 an acre on drainage. Speculators bought small sections at $2 an acre and sold them with some success throughout the country at a much higher price.

In July, 1908, Gov. Broward and former Gov. Jennings interested Richard J. Bolles of Colorado in the Everglades plan. Bolles, who had made a fortune in Western irrigation, went to Florida and bought from private individuals 400,000 acres, and from the State 500,000 acres of the swamp at $2 an acre, payable in installments, the State agreeing to spend $1.50 an acre in drainage. The last of Bolles' installments is due in 1916, by which time the State has contracted to complete the drainage.

Maj. Wright in 1909 completed his report on the Everglades and turned it in to the Agricultural Department. He asserts that his report was not intended either to boost or condemn the plans for the Everglades, but contained all the available evidence so that the public could draw its own conclusion.

U. S. Report Used by Promoters.

Portions of the Wright report found their way into the hands of the swamp boomers and were widely circulated as commendatory. It is alleged the speculators sold thousands of acres of the swamp at from $12 to $50 an acre. One batch of 180,000 acres was sold through the Florida Fruit Land Co. to persons in the Middle West.

There is a suit pending for recovery on the part of 12,000 persons who invested in this batch. The plaintiffs in the case aver that Bolles received $2,880,000 gross for this land, on which he had paid the State of Florida about $50,000, and on which he is expected eventually to pay $160,000.

His selling agents, it is said, received on this batch commissions of $400,000. The Bolles agents, under many names, are selling the lands in all sections of the country at $50 an acre.

Through the activities of the postal inspectors, S. B. Bolles, a brother of Richard Bolles, has been indicted in Florida with others on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

Facts Hid From Purchasers.

The promoters do not use the mails any more. They show prospective purchasers what will grow on the soil. The soil is in buckets in their show windows. They do not tell the purchasers that the land in the everglades, with the exception of the fringe, is almost inaccessible and that nothing but wild vegetation is growing there. Along the canals in parts of the everglades houses have been built and some farmers are prospering.

Engineers who have examined the lands say the present canals never will carry off the water. Florida has no money with which to build more.

After the Wright report had been made it was revised by Chief Engineer C. G. Elliott of the United States Reclamation Service, with the aid of his assistant, A. D. Morehouse. The revised report has not been made public and it is charged that it was suppressed because the swamp promoters thought it would injure their project.

Representative Clark of Florida has alleged to the Moss Committee that he got from Secretary Wilson's own lips that the Elliott-Morehouse revised report was suppressed because of the protestations of those interested in the Everglades promotion.

Recently Elliott and Morehouse were dismissed from the service on the allegation they had certified and presented false accounts. They were dismissed, they say, because they had revised the Wright report.

In 1910, Maj. Wright left the Government service and became chief engineer of the Everglades drainage project, which he has boosted as a good thing for investors.

Jasper Wilson, son of the Secretary of Agriculture and formerly a clerk in that department, is now in the employment of a Colorado irrigation promotion concern at $10,000 a year.

"I'm Not Protecting Fools."

W. R. Hardee, former Florida legislator, has made a signed statement telling that Secretary Wilson informed Representative Clark that the Elliott-Morehouse report had been suppressed at the instance of those interested in the Everglades and says that Wilson replied as follows when Clark maintained the report should be published: "I am not running this office for the protection of fools who do not know any better than to buy something they never saw and do not know anything about."

Secretary Wilson denies, through Solicitor McCabe, that he ever made such a statement.

It is alleged that Maj. Wright, after he had reported favorably on the feasibility of draining 50,000 acres of marsh owned by the North Carolina School Board, told the State Board he would find a purchaser and sold the land to the Southern Land Reclamation Co., of which D. N. Graves is president, receiving $5000 for his commission.

It is asserted Wright, while still in the Government service, formed a company to drain the Tolsnot swamp of Wilson County, N. C., which he had inspected for the State.

JUDGE WHO SENT SCHIFF VALET TO CELL INVESTIGATED

Jurists and Legislators Secretly Inquire Into Rolasky's Acts in Sentencing Brandt to 30 Years, to See if Grounds for Impeachment Exist.

BELIEVED GOV. DIX IS CONSIDERING PARDON

Prisoner Leaves Dannemora to Have His Day in Court, It Is Said on Behalf of Judge and Governor That They Were Imposed On.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Impeachment proceedings may be instituted immediately against Judge Otto Rosalsky, who sentenced Folke E. Brandt, the valet of Mortimer L. Schiff, millionaire banker, to the penitentiary for 30 years on a plea of guilty to first-degree burglary. Brandt contends he went to prisen in the belief he would be released in a year. While Judge Rosalsky is hearing Brandt's application for a rehearing tomorrow, he, himself, the Post-Dispatch is informed, will be made the subject of a secret inquiry on the part of certain jurists and legislators with a view of deciding if grounds for impeachment exist.

It is reported that if impeachment proceedings were undertaken, Gov. Dix would grant a pardon or commutation of sentence to Brandt upon the advice of Attorney-General Carmody. Such action would leave him free to join in the investigation that may be made into the court proceedings.

The Governor may be actuated in pardoning Brandt by the discovery that he has been imposed upon, which is the same cry raised by Judge Rosalsky, the defense lying in the persons who accomplished the impositions.

Immediate Clemency Expected.

It is believed Gov. Dix is contemplating clemency for the prisoner, to take effect before his case is called in the Supreme Court tomorrow morning.

It is known that enemies of Rosalsky believe the record of the conviction of Brandt shows such glaring errors that a delicate situation has arisen with regard to the court and this is to be made the most of by those who are seeking to make him the "goat" of the whole affair.

When Brandt left his home in Sweden for the great new world he had not dreamed of spinning the big State of New York on its hind legs as he has done.

Brandt left Dannemora Prison, where he has been under close imprisonment, at 10:14 this morning and should reach the Grand Central Station at 8:33 p. m. He will be taken at once to the Tombs, and at 10:30 Tuesday morning will go before Justice Gerard, who will hear arguments on the habeas corpus writ that was the means of getting Brandt out of prison.

While the Justice is considering whether the writ shall be continued or dismissed, counsel will go before Justice Rosalsky in General Sessions, where Brandt received his long sentence, and move for the reopening of the case.

If the motion is granted the Court will be apprised of the fact that the prisoner is now in the jurisdiction, and an order will be issued remanding him to the Tombs to await the action of the bench. So Brandt has two strings to his bow in the effort making to keep him here until his case has been adjudicated, instead of sending him back to Dannemora, which might involve a long fight to get him out again.

Imposed On, Judge's Defense.

The defense put forth for Rosalsky is that he was imposed upon. He had no reason to doubt the accuracy of the report on Brandt's case submitted by Detective Woolridge, which has been riddled by District Attorney Whitman.

In any such steps as now are being discussed, the question of the activities of the lawyers for Mortimer L. Schiff figure largely. Also, this will play a part in the proceedings to reopen the case and is an important portion of the Joe Doe investigation begun by District Attorney Whitman to learn if there had been a conspiracy or subornation of perjury in the case.

Concerning this feature the book of visitors to Tombs prisoners would have a bearing, but it cannot be found. Although this confirmation is lacking, it was learned today the report that Howard Gans, who acted for Schiff, had called upon Brandt twice in jail is correct.

Brandt assaulted Schiff and committed burglary the night of March 8, 1907. He was lodged in the Tombs after being arraigned before Magistrate Whitman. March 13, Brandt addressed a letter to Schiff asking Schiff to call on him. Schiff's personal attorney, Gans, called and had a conference alone with the prisoner for more than an hour, although at that time and thereafter Gans was associated with the prosecution of the prisoner. As he left the Tombs that day, Gans ordered that the restaurant which usually serves food to prisoners who have enough money to pay for their own supplies should give Brandt whatever he asked for and send the bills to Schiff. It was about this time that an effort was made to have the prisoner found mentally deficient and he was examined by Drs. MacDonald and Mabon and Tombs Physician McGuire.

Gans a Friend of Jerome's.

Gans, who for several years was on the staff of District Attorney Jerome, with whom he was on very friendly terms and whose office was in charge of the prosecution of Brandt, does not appear much concerned by any recent development in the case. He believes everything that was done was done in proper manner. He says he has nothing to conceal and adds he has offered to discuss any and every phrase of the matter with Whitman. In fact, he announces that he would volunter to go before the grand jury or appear before any John Doe proceeding that may be started. Gans always has borne an excellent reputation.

Assemblyman Charles Vert of Plattsburg, who went to see Brandt after getting a Supreme Court order directing the prison authorities to open the door of the prison to him, is in New York to confer with Mirabeau L. Towns, who, with James W. Osborne, Clarence J. Shearn and Romert M. Moore are to handle the proceedings. Towns announces that he would volunteer to go information of a startling and valuable nature, but he would not indicate its nature.

He had a three-hour conference with the Assemblyman, who produced the affidavit that Towns wanted Brandt to make. This had to do with the details of the happenings after Brandt's arrest, until he pleaded before Judge Rosalsky March 28 and received the 30-year sentence April 4.

The frequency of changes of counsel, the manner in which Brandt believed himself to have been sold out by the Schiffs, the promises Brandt says were made to him as to the disposition of the case, the talks he had with lawyers representing the Schiff interests and all the other incidents of the plan by which Brandt says he was tricked into almost a lifetime sentence, came forth in the document. It will play a large part in the habeas corpus proceedings and a bigger part in the efforts to reopen the case.

Mysterious Agency Directs Burial of Former Actress Who Married St. Louisan.

RICH GOWNS IN TRUNK

Returned Checks for Sums Ranging From $10,000 to $50,000 in Effects.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—After lying for two days in a small bedroom, the body of Mrs. Clara Pratt, once a Broadway stage beauty and the wife of Charles R. Pratt Jr., the son of a St. Louis millionaire, was saved from a grave in potter's field Sunday through an unknown agency.

The woman attempted suicide 10 months ago while living at the Hotel Martinique, in Broadway. She shot herself twice. From luxury she had fallen into desperate circumstances. Her marriage was a Broadway romance and she and her husband lived loyally together. He inherited $30,000 a year from his father, Charles R. Pratt, but lost his fortune in speculations. He went to South America with his wife to recoup and died there, leaving his widow penniless. She is said to have appealed to his family in vain.

Falls Over at Work.

Her youth was gone, so she did not seek the stage, where she was known as Clara Ganau, a chorus girl. She obtained a position as telephone operator in the office of Thomas Stevens & Co.

She suddenly fell over while working at the switchboard in the Stevens offices, Thursday afternoon, and was taken to the Hudson street hospital unconscious. She died there of heart disease. In her trunks were handsome gowns and returned checks which revealed sums drawn by her that ranged from $10,000 to $50,000.

Lodgers Raise Funds.

The lodgers in the house were trying to raise a fund to save her from potter's field when an undertaker took away the body. He presented credentials which the lodging house keeper said were not to be questioned.

It was not stated where the body was taken, but it was said there was no doubt it would receive proper burial. It was not denied that the family of her dead husband had at the eleventh hour intervened to save her from being buried at the public expense.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 12.—Just as the prison chaplain was about to pronounce the benediction at the close of the morning chapel services at the State penitentiary today, Albert Prince, under sentence for assault with intent to kill, attacked and stabbed Deputy Warden E. FINED FOR LETTING BOYS IN POOLROOM; CLOSES HIS PLACE

Lane's $50 Penalty Recommended by Prosecutor After Promise to Obey Law.

HAD A HALL AT ST. JAMES

This and Another Case Were Outgrowth of Industrial School Investigation.

Frank Lane, until Saturday proprietor of a pool room in the St. James Hotel Building, was fined $50 and cost on his plea of guilty in the Court of Criminal Correction, Monday, to a charge of permitting minors to frequent the place.

He told Prosecutor Howard Sidener that he had closed his pool hall. He promised not to violate this law again and Sidener recommended the $50 fine.

Another Case Set for Feb. 26

Max Goldberg and Max Novak, proprietors of a pool hall on Carr street, who had been arrested on the same charge, asked a continuance. Their case was set for trial Feb. 26.

The arrest of the three men was the outgrowth of a campaign started at the request of Supt. Major of the industrial school. Boys in the school told the superintendent of a number of pool halls where minors were permitted, where they bought intoxicants, spent all their money and where they stole from players.

The only charge against the three defendants was that they permitted boys under age in their places.

Took Stolen Beer to Place.

According to the recitals of the boys, it was not uncommon for lads to spend all their spare time in some pool halls. One boy said he had made a practice of stealing chickens from small groceries. Another told of stealing beer and taking it to a pool hall.

Another said that he once robbed an intoxicated insurance man, taking about $100. He gave $24 of this to the keeper of a pool hall in which the robbery occurred and spent more of it for drinks for himself and other boys.

When he went to sleep in the place, he was robbed himself, he said, and even his good clothes were exchanged for shabby garments.

How Strength May Be Recovered.

So many people are asking how to recover their strength after the grip that we are publishing this information for their benefit.

The most certain way to get this is by using our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, called Vinol. It positively does create strength, make the blood rich, sharpens the appetite and increases vitality.

Mrs. Hattie Elms of Queensbury, N. Y., says: "Last spring I had a hard case of la grippe and was very slow about getting over it. I was almost discouraged. Vinol was recommended to me and I began using it. Now it has done me so much good that I must tell you about it, for I have regained my strength and appetite and feel well again."

DEMOCRACY'S EVIL GENII.

Abundant material for attack can be found in the public career of Mr. Bryan, and Congressman Martin E. Dies of Texas, utilized some of it in his House denunciation of the "Nebraska Don Quixote." The material, however, has been available for years and has been extensively drawn on by Republicans and Democrats.

Would Mr. Dies have made this attack if the Harmon candidacy for president had proved agreeable to Mr. Bryan and was commanding his active support? Would it have won as much applause from the Democratic side of the House, if the new Underwood candidacy was being approved weekly in the issues of the Commoner as an admirable movement for holding Southern delegates in line for a candidate who will suit the interests?

In picturing evil genii that "hover on the flanks of Democracy," why does Mr. Dies ignore the sinister influences represented by such men as Senator Bailey of his own state?

Wall street is betting 5 to 4 that Taft will be re-elected. Which doubtless encourages Mr. Taft—greatly.

WHAT "STABLE GOVERNMENT" MEANS.

Take any general history at hand which has a chronological index of events. Follow it back by counting periods of 33 years for a generation from the present to the beginning. Then it will be found that every generation in every country has either seen or felt such conditions of turmoil as, "according to President Taft's advices," have followed the banishment of Diaz from Mexico.

As the political history of the world from its beginning to date is that of dissatisfaction, increasing periodically to the fighting point, it is only in very modern times that a reliable way has been found of making any government "stable." It was discovered by the founders of the United States; as local self-government, the home rule which allows those who are dissatisfied, with reason or without, to satisfy themselves by putting all their surplus energy into the attempt to change the conditions immediately around them, without spreading disturbance until it is forced to become general.

In the "United States of Mexico," Diaz used his "new nationalism" to abolish home rule. He obliterated the States of Mexico. There is no possibility of stable government in Mexico until the States are restored to the functions of genuine home rule, which localizes disturbance instead of spreading it.

As on that side of the Rio Grande, so on this. The principles of stable government are well enough understood now. Government will be stable wherever they are so enforced in practice that disturbance cannot spread towards or from the center.

THE NEW ENGLAND WINTER.

James Russell Lowell once started out to say "a good word for winter" and said more than 9000 before he got through.

It was the typical New England winter Mr. Lowell had in mind. Summed up, however, what he contended for was that winter is a pretty wide-awake old fellow; that walks in winter are bracing; that winter furnishes a good sort of environment to play whist in, bridge not having then become the fad, and that winter while it lasts does more than a huge congressional appropriation could possibly do for the cause of good roads.

But Lowell himself confessed that the thermometrical view of winter is most depressing. He owned up that the chief of all the poets of winter was compelled to write his sonnets in bed with his frosted pen hand stuck through a hole cut for the purpose in the bed clothes. Along the St. Louis isothermal line a good deal of respect has been entertained for Mr. Lowell heretofore. After the coldest January known in 49 years has been experienced, however, and the succeeding month has started in as though ambitious to become the coldest February in 149 years, a painful sense of disappointment is felt that the essayist committed himself as far as he did in these remarks on winter.

The New England winter may be all right in New England, but the first trial of one of them south of the Missouri and west of the Mississippi shows that it does not come anywhere near grading up to the Lowell description.

SHALL THE MISSOURI DEMOCRACY COMMIT SUICIDE?

No. 8.

The Compact of State Bosses.

The restoration of popular control of parties and the Government has been a favorite theme of Messrs. Clark and Folk and the Democratic leaders associated with them in the recent effort to control the Joplin convention and the Missouri delegation to the national convention. They have ranted about the overthrow of the boss system and the necessity of giving the voters opportunity to express their will through primary elections.

The sincerity of these professions of reform may be judged by the methods employed in the recently-ended contest for the presidential endorsement of the Joplin convention.

In St. Louis Speaker Clark gladly became the beneficiary of an outrageous scheme of ward bosses to smother the will of the voters. The primary law of the State was thrust aside and a primary was called with conditions which made the city committee the directors and supervisors of a primary in which they were avowed partisans. The delegations and the election were fixed to suit the purposes of the bosses. Not one word of protest against this villainy of despotic bossism was voiced by Speaker Clark or any of his friends.

In Kansas City the election conditions and delegations were agreed upon by the party bosses without regard for the wishes of the party voters and without opportunity for their expression at the polls.

Throughout the State slates were made by agreement of organization leaders. The voters were dumb cattle in the hands of their herders.

In the settlement of the contest no account was taken of the will of the voters, the real interests of the Democratic party or the welfare of the country. Mr. Folk, who pretended to represent the larger issue of liberal Democracy and popular control of Government against a charged conspiracy of plutocratic interests, handed over his part of the Democracy to Mr. Clark. The terms for the surrender of the undivided Missouri delegation have not been made public. The bosses have not taken the voters into their confidence. The people are expected to accept what is doled out to them by the boss caucus and be thankful they are permitted to go to the polls to ratify boss compacts. We may be sure, however, that in the "harmony deal" secured by this exchange of courtesies between self-constituted leaders, the Old Guard is restored to a full measure of power. Not only the Baltimore delegation, but the State ticket, is "fixed."

The Missouri delegation is to be instructed for Clark, not because Missouri Democrats believe he is the candidate who ought to be nominated or can be elected. Speaker Clark is an amiable politician with conspicuous weaknesses as a presidential candidate. Neither his record nor his capacity commend him as the standard bearer of the party. He is the choice of the Missouri Democracy because his candidacy suits the purpose of certain leaders in whose calculations the party's welfare and the public good figure least.

In the sham battle which has been waged in this State not a leader has made a genuine effort to restore popular control of the party

Lacking the machinery for presidential primaries representative party government might have been assured by permitting the voters of the congressional districts to send untrammeled delegates to the national convention. A long step toward the restoration of popular control of the party might be made by the abolition of the unit rule. But the so-called professional leaders have been silent on these suggestions of the Post-Dispatch.

No party ever won by sham and insincerity. Victory is not in the books of boss deals and compacts. If the Joplin convention ratifies the agreements of the would-be bosses of the Missouri Democracy it will nullify all that has been done for the redemption of the party in the State. It will do all that lies in its power to endanger Democratic success in the State and the Nation.

The usual half dozen Sunday evening burglaries testify to the vigilance of the St. Louis police. Only the buncoed stranger was lacking to make Jan. 11 a typical St. Louis sabbath.

APOLOGY FOR CONTEMPT.

It is now fairly well established that no minor Federal Court in the District of Columbia can be used at will by officeholders there or their proprietors and principals elsewhere to intimidate American newspapers all over the United States with the threat that their editors may be kidnaped suddenly and spirited off to Washington on some sort of a lettre de cachet.

As far as that kidnaping spirit is responsible for the Gompers contempt proceedings in the District of Columbia, all that need be said in the matter of apologies for contempt is that the judge who lends himself to such an assault on American rights and liberties deserves execration rather than mere contempt.

We only seized a wharf in Honduras, but in Panama we seized an entire waterway.

"A CHAPTER OF NATIONAL DISHONOR."

Under this title Leander T. Chamberlain, who is vice-chairman of the National Commission on Arbitration between Great Britain and the United States, discusses in the February North American Review Theodore Roosevelt's recent statement that the acquisition of the Panama Canal "was as free from scandal as the public acts of George Washington or Abraham Lincoln."

Mr. Chamberlain points out that from 1863 to 1903 it had been thought necessary to land American marines to protect transisthmian traffic but seven times; that in each case this action was taken with Colombia's approval, and that only three times was traffic interrupted. So much for the Roosevelt contention that it was necessary to seize the canal zone, by enabling Panama to secede from Colombia, and purchasing from the new republic territory for the canal.

The obligations of the United States to Colombia under the treaty of 1846, and the legal and moral principles of diplomacy and international jurisprudence which should have governed our attitude and actions, are clearly set forth by Mr. Chamberlain. He plainly charges that, in making exception to these principles to excuse his course in the Panama affair, Mr. Roosevelt exposes his own attainments in moral science, in a "significant revelation," claiming "for himself not only exceptions in the practical modes of veracious speech, but also exceptions in the rule itself."

A more lucid exposition of fact, of law and of principle would be hard to find. If anyone doubts that ordinary justice to Colombia demands thorough investigation of the dealings of our Government at Panama and in Paris, reading Mr. Chamberlain's analysis of the "deal" will make it clear.

The terms of the compact by which Folk was re-elected to the Chatauqua Circle and the Joplin convention was turned over to Speaker Clark and his backers will appear later. The will of Missouri Democratic voters is a negligible factor.

It is hoped that withdrawal from the presidential race will become a craze, like the late craze for confession, and eliminate others who have no chance for the nomination and no chance for election even if nominated.

Whether the engineers of public school buildings are licensed or unlicensed, their personnel should show some sudden changes, if they have been hanging nail kegs and bricks to the safety valves of the boilers.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

At Franklin Avenue and Wash Street.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Persons who have occasion to take the westbound Hodiamont car at Leffingwell avenue are hoping that the motormen of that line will soon adopt some uniform stopping place. The near side of the crossing at that point is in an open plaza formed by the intersection of Franklin avenue and Wash street, and persons who stand there are in danger from vehicles. For this reason, the company, when the near side rule went into effect, posted a sign at the far side which says, "Car stop."

Nearly one-half the motormen disregard this sign, and stop just beyond the crossing of the Wellston line, then shoot past persons who are waiting at the place where the sign tells them to wait. A woman who was passed in this fashion by two cars Sunday walked to the near-side stopping place, only to be passed by the third car, whose motorman observed the sign. She then walked to the corner of Ewing avenue, a block west, and caught the next car there. C. H.

Tax on Home Washing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Don't you think it hurts St. Louis when nonresidents pick up a paper and see a proposal of $3 tax for home washing? Don't you think this special tax is being worked a little too hard? Then comes $1 for heating your hot water; what is the difference whether you heat on the stove or heat with a waterback? You now pay $1 hose license for the privilege of sprinkling your lawns; you sprinkle from 3 p. m. until about 5 p. m. every day and wash one day a week say from 8 a. m. to 11 a. m. Do you see any justice in that?

A great stunt to increase our population.

RESIDENT.

W. C. T. U. and Working Girls.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having had my attention called to a letter appearing recently in your columns, signed "Two Working Girls," I trust you will grant me space to correct an apparently erroneous idea in the minds of these writers, and others, of the purpose of the W. C. T. U. in the recent move relative to public amusements, etc.

The W. C. T. U. has no desire whatever to curtail amusements of the working girl, but simply to safeguard those amusements to a larger extent than is the case at present. Women carefully selected as supervisors of places of public amusements will exercise greater care over those attending such places than will men. It is men who seek to ruin young girls, it is men who make the laws, and men who enforce the laws. Surely no right-minded and right-thinking working girl can object to women caring sufficiently for those of their own sex as to make them desire to protect young girls from unrealized dangers.

If "Two Working Girls" would study the history and purposes of the W. C. T. U. they would find that organization has stood always for equal pay, for equal work for the sexes, and has always been foremost in all legislative work for bettering the conditions of women. The writers of the letter referred to know very little evidently of the W. C. T. U. and kindred organizations. Frances E. Willard, for so many years president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, whose statue now adorns the National Hall of Fame in Washington, and no grander woman ever lived, was once a "working girl."

Medical Oppression.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Capable chiropractors have greatly benefited many patients, yet the "State Board of Health" of Illinois is making a war on them. Have the people of Illinois no longer the right to be cured? Must they be drugged to death? There should be an end to such oppression. COMMON SENSE.

Art and Automobiles.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The relation of the mechanical to the fine arts, and their interdependence one upon the other, as our financiers might say, is very pointedly in evidence at our Art Museum. Under such weather conditions as prevail during the winter season the abyss between the pedestrian and the motorist is as remarkably irritating to the former as it may be gratifying to the latter. There is genuine class distinction therefore at our free art museum. The servant may not be equal to his master in all respects save the means of approach. This may be relatively true of the opera and the ball game, but it is not so keenly felt.

The desire for cultivation in art is not most pronounced in those of strong wind and limb, nor in the possessors of motors cars. All others are at a disadvantage and in a measure deprived of their artistic citizenship. Expensive roadways, smooth as glass for machines, and dirty, uneven cinder paths for the public afoot is unfair discrimination. The Park Commissioner should at least provide well graded granitoid walks for the long distances that have to be traversed to arrive at Art Hill. A. E. S.

What Working Women Want.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Two "Working Girls" are certainly right. Better wages, so the working woman can properly feed and decently cloth herself is what is needed. Suppose these women who are so interested in us bring their influence to bear on their husbands, sons, brothers, etc., to see that we are accorded a little more suitable proportion of the wealth we are helping to produce, as the Socialists say. Community houses, per Mr. Post and some others, do not appeal to us, nor charity in any guise. Our own aim is to be able, with the help of the good Lord "to steer clear of it."

ANOTHER ONE.

"IT'S YOURS".

THAT TARIFF BOARD.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Just at present we happen to have a beautifully uninfluenced board of tariff experts. And very recently indeed this board has presented a waiting president and Congress and the nation generally with a report on the subject of a single schedule—schedule K.

This little piece of advice on one schedule of the scores in the tariff law is embraced in four imposing volumes of about 500 pages each, filled for the most part with close print and fine statistical tables.

With this little example of what an uninfluenced board's report on a single schedule means, we may well shrink with horror from the prospect of receiving the report of its labors on a whole tariff bill. It is putting it mildly to say that its total advice would load a freight train so heavily that it would take two engines at the head and two at the tail to move it from Hammond to Chicago. Congress would have to adjourn for at least 40 years to glance through it.

FOR DIPLOMATIC WEAR.

From the Memphis News-Scimitar.

The amenities must be observed. Respect must be shown the courts to whom our ambassadors are accredited. Our representatives must not be singularly boorish. Some concession must be made, if only to adopt the three-Turkish-towel garment of the Chicago 400. Some sort of toggery should be permitted or provided our ambassadors at foreign courts, besides the "full evening dress" of the menials. If this cannot be done, then the American eagle should be painted on the coat lapels with the legend underneath, "This is not an advertisement of a brand of beer," and across the rear elevation the letters U. S. A. should be blazoned. Something should be done—something. The ambassadorial dilemma must be relieved.

AS TO BOSS COX.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Boss Cox of Cincinnati says his confidence in human nature has been shaken. It is sad indeed to see an idealist's faith in human nature shaken. But let us hope that even if Mr. Cox has discovered that there is more or less sin and duplicity in the world—even in Cincinnati—he will not rush precipitately to the bridge and cast himself into the Ohio at a time singularly unpropitious for drowning with comfort.

For Art's Sake.

From the Washington Star.

"I'm afraid you have lost interest in your art collection."

"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "You see, mother and the girls went around and removed all the price tags and now I can't tell which to appreciate most."

Flattery

From the Philadelphia Record.

Sillicus: What do you consider the most delicate form of flattery?

Cynicus: Telling a married man he doesn't look it.

Their Relations.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"What are the relations now between your wife and yourself?"

"Oh, only her mother, two uncles, a sister and a few cousins."

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by W. H. James

IT'S COMING.

THE watchfires are lighted on every hill;
I've no gift of language, my friends, but still
I view with alarm the encroachments of power
That bid us arise; ah, now is the hour
When the heel of the tyrant is pressed on our necks
And the waters of freedom are littered with wrecks.
I pause for reply. What, none? Then I'm right,
I'm proud of the chance to be with you tonight.
Ah, my friends, do not waver, the time is at hand
When we must go out and redeem this fair land.
Shall we stand by idle? Nay, never my friends
While the cohorts of evil accomplish their ends?
Are we slaves, are we cowards? Far be it from so!
Stand shoulder to shoulder and give blow for blow.
Our sacred inheritance right shall be might;
Aye, see the old flag where it waves in the light!
The stars and stripes! How we thrill at their sight,
My friends, there's the banner for which we all fight!
Let's go to the front, as our forefathers did,
And rally round Teddy, the Wall street Kid.

"See You Later!"

I dreamed I died,
But did not go to Heaven;
Tho' where I went
I am not bound to tell.
Enough to say
I got there, not alone.
It's on the chart,
And classified as—well,
A place where hope
Is left behind.

If hope were Smith and Jones and Brown,
'Twould be all right;
But Fate was not so kind;
For they're here, too—
They came last night.
Yet ere they came
They painted up the town.

When last we met
We had a drink or two,
Threshed out the news,
Toasted our alma mater,
Chased off the blues.
Each gave with smiling face
The parting quip:
"So long! We'll see you later!"

Vague rendezvous,
Sans future time and place!
I did not think
That they were prophets then
Or that their vision
Went beyond the grave.
How much I knew:
Of Smith and Brown and Jones;
Novenas, oft I offered
To save their bones
From Dante's marionettes
And what they proffered,
That they might not
To evil masters cater,
Yet here they are.
Their forecast proved!
I did not guess
That they could see so far.
Yet it is true—
"We'll see you later!"
And so they do.

After having attended a protracted meeting near Buzzard Knob for more than a week, Sidney Hooks returned home Thursday morning and swore off, after which he took his gun, a quart of licker and a pair of loaded dice down to the creek and threw them in. Today he went to the creek, but has little hope of ever recovering them.

A DAY OF REST

Is There No Place on Land or Sea to Which a Poor Tired Man May Flee?

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch By MAURICE KETTEN.

A NEW WAY TO QUARREL

When You Are Married

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY ALMA WOODWARD.

AFTER half past two this afternoon the phone rang. It was Ted, and he said he was going to bring two men home to dinner. I was thunderstruck! Because I had told him when he left in the morning that we had so much roast beef left over from last night that he'd have to eat hash for dinner. And he laughed and said he loved roast beef hash if it was brown enough!

So, very indignantly, I reminded him of the hash and its utter inappropriateness for those two men.

At first I was puzzled by the way he answered, then I concluded that someone was in the office and that he didn't dare to be too explicit.

We haven't had many guests to dinner since we've been married, and those we have had I've known about beforehand and I've been able to prepare for them.

You see, I received such a lot of silver and cut glass for wedding gifts, and they make the table look so pretty that I spend half a day polishing them up when people are coming.

And here it was after two in the afternoon, nothing decent to eat in the house and the silver and glass all dull and everything! I sat down and hurriedly wrote out a list of things and sent Mary around the corner to the shops. Then I started to polish.

I always get terribly flushed and excited when I do anything in a hurry; and somehow or other the short hairs that hang over my forehead and ears always curl up and get fuzzy. So I didn't look half bad when I dressed for dinner.

The men got there at half past six. They all come together, so of course I didn't have a chance to say a word to Ted. The dinner was fine.

Well, when they had gone, all the things I'd been saving to say to Ted burst out. For a moment he just looked at me with an amused smile; then he said:

"Great guns! If you've had all that corked up in your system since this afternoon it's a wonder the whipped cream on the blanc mange didn't turn when you were serving it!"

Of course that made me furious.

"Let's change the order of things this time," he teased. "Let's kiss before we make up. Come on!"

I was sullen—I think I made a face at him. Oh, a very LITTLE face, of course; but still I realized it wasn't a dignified thing to do! His hands are like iron when he grasps my wrists and his eyes are so deep and dear and hard to resist.

"Please, just for variety's sake," he pleaded mischievously. "Afterward you can tell me just how sorry you are!"

"Sorry, indeed!" I flashed, and stamped my foot.

Oh, but what's the use! It wasn't many seconds before I did as he said.

"Now, about the dinner," he began. "The dinner was dandy and you looked beautiful! Don't think I'm going to make a practice of bringing people home unexpectedly, because I'm not. Today was an exception. Those men are from out of town. I COULD have blown them to dinner and theater downtown, but that costs a lot of money; and there's a certain little lady, not far from my arms, who's dying to get a new set of furs—and every little bit helps, you know."

I reached up and patted his face.

"Did you really think of my furs, you darling!"

"Of course, and we're going to get them, too—maybe next Saturday. But that isn't what I wanted to say. It's just this: Don't ever think that I'm doing things purposely to inconvenience you or displease you. And when I phone as I did today, don't take it as a personal affront, dear. Don't get angry at me in your heart. Because a man has enough to battle against downtown—there is enough to block and disillusion him—home should be a place of love and content. We're just beginning our home, little girl. Let's try to start it right. What do you think about it?"

My answer wasn't exactly audible—but it pleased him!

THE MAKE-UP WOMAN

Intimate Chats With Women.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY MADAME LEGRAND.

THE next time you go to the theater, get there early and watch the audience come in. There are always more women with hats than without them—keep your eye on them.

Nine out of ten will go through a secondary toilet-making that is simply startling, when deliberately watched.

The hat comes off first. Then there is a great patting and pulling of flattened locks; a teasing or rutting of stray hairs that fringe the face; a putting in place of slipping hairpins, and a final adjustment of combs and bandeaux.

This is followed by the appearance of a vanity case or opera bag, in which are concealed the weapons of the fair feminine—a mirror, a powder puff, or chamois, and a lipstick.

The nose and chin usually get all the powder at the theater.

When the powder is put away, the lips are treated to a smudge of pomade; and then begins the wry twisting and rubbing of the mouth to smooth the stuff, so that it "looks natural."

ALL this is viewed in the tiny mirror, and the operator turns and twists her head from side to side to get all the effects. Sometimes, not always, she finishes off by moistening the tips of her manicured fingers and rubbing them firmly over her eyebrows.

Then, if there isn't something wrong with her gown, or a pin sticking in her, she'll settle back in her chair and begin to be aware that she has an escort.

Once upon a time it was generally thought that the mystery surrounding woman was her greatest charm. The comic papers still tell us that man find other women more attractive than their own wives because they don't see them "BEFORE and after" the beautifying process.

And yet for the price of a theater ticket you can see a hundred women make up!

Foreigners who see this sight for the first time are astounded—as well they may be. For this latest mania of the American woman is extremely ill-bred—it is vulgar!

There are dressing rooms in all theaters, restaurants, etc. If a woman thinks she can improve her appearance by a session with her vanity case, let her do it by all means; but not where hundreds of people she's never seen before can watch her!

THE most deplorable part of it is that usually it isn't necessary. Most likely she has just come from her home and is as fresh as a daisy. But she's got the habit—and WHAT a habit it is!

You wouldn't put your shoes on in public. You wouldn't think of brushing your teeth before a couple of interested spectators. You're very much embarrassed if someone tells you that the lace edge of your petticoat is showing or that your waist is open in the back. But you'll manufacture a complexion and smooth yourself, much like the cat, before an audience of strangers—and not have stage fright either!

Start a crusade among your friends against this latest evil—the public brushing up! Make them see the laxness of it. But be sure and see it yourself first.

It's just one of those things that makes the men of other nations lift their eyebrows and shrug their shoulders when mentioning the American woman.

The House of Dreams

BY BATTERMAN LINDSAY.

The Daily Short Story for Post-Dispatch Readers

WHEN I came upon the House quite unexpectedly, I experienced a shock of startled recognition, but no surprise; for I had been seeing it now and again in my dreams for many years. No dwelling could have been more commonplace and unattractive in appearance. The long way of it abutted upon the road, and the steep weather-beaten slope of its roof enhanced the gray monotony of its exterior.

It was two-storied, with narrow porches extending its whole length, above and below; and from the dust of the highway one could step directly upon the unrailed lower one. In both stories, it had a door in the middle and two small-paned windows on either side, which created an uncanny impression of empty eye sockets.

Evidently it was long deserted, and so I had always seen it; but it was still in good condition, for those whom it had once served as a roadhouse had long since passed another way, and there was none to molest it.

The interior of this house had never been shown to me; so I swung from my saddle to the porch, determined to have the secret of it before going further. The door was not locked, and admitted me to a small square entry, with a door on either hand, and between them a stair, occupying the whole width of the hall, and ascending before me to the upper regions.

One by one, I completed my examination of the rooms; all were alike in their stark bareness, until I came to the eighth, a corner one. As I crossed its threshold, marveling at its strange obscurity, so unlike the others, a shadowy figure advanced to me through an open door, where no door should be, but an outer wall.

I arrested myself, my grasp still on the knob, and the other did likewise. My hand instinctively sought my hip, a gesture duplicated by the other.

It was an appreciable time before my comprehension grew upon me that he who was thus coming to meet me was my own image reflected in the opposite window darkened into a reflecting surface by the crowding gray-green branches of a sturdy juniper. I laughed sheepishly, and the echoes mocked me with cacophonous din.

It is disconcerting to hear your own laugh in an empty dwelling, and you alone in it. I swore under my breath, and quickly made my way back downstairs.

For me, this house certainly held something, and I must know what before taking the road again. I turned and re-entered.

Again I received a shock.

Sitting half way up the stairs, with a small derringer cocked across her knee, was a young woman.

"Don't move another step," she said.

The warning was needless. Surprise held me motionless more effectually than her weapon. But for the entirely human sound of her voice, I should hav regarded her as a second illusion.

"What were you looking for upstairs?" she inquired after the mutual stare had endured several seconds.

"You can search me!" I replied fervently, "although now that I come to think of it, I believe it must have been you, though I did not realize it at the time."

There was just the faintest perceptible twitching at the corners of her mouth, which I regarded as a favorable sign. She deflected the barrel slightly, and looked me over considerringly.

"Can I be of any use to you?" I inquired politely.

"No, thank you," she returned, with equal politeness. "My father will be back in a few moments. Or—yes! You will oblige me greatly by getting on your horse and going on wherever it was you were going."

"I had intended to pass the night in this inn," I replied.

"Please!" she said.

It was impossible to disregard the entreaty in her voice. I turned from the door, and stood on the porch, reflective, while my pony nuzzled in my palm.

No, I would not mount and ride away.

I led my pony to the lake, loosened the cinch and let him drink his fill, then brought him back and left him before the door, with trailing rein, for so he was trained to stand still till the last trumpet sounded if left so long. Then I knocked some boards off the shed which had once stabled the stage horses, and taking them in through the kitchen door, soon had a snapping blaze in the cavernous chimney. With a bough from the juniper tree I swept the dust from table and floor, and with some of the filched boards improvised a seat.

Not until all this was done, did I venture to peep into the hall to see if the bird were still there. It was: perched in the same place—a tired and worried loking bird. Should I be able to coax it from its perch?

"Won't you come to the fire?" I inquired cheerfuly. "You may as well be comfortable while you wait."

With but momentary hesitation, she complied. She seated herself on the makeshift bench, and basked in the firelight with evident enjoyment.

"If we only had a cup of tea now, we would be quite cozy," she ventured with a charming smile.

"Just what I was thinking myself," I agreed with enthusiasm.

"No! Really, we couldn't?"

"We surely can," I asured her, and hastened to fill my camp kettle from the lake; to rake out a bed of clear coals on the hearth and set the kettle over them on two flat stones. I produced my package of tea, my few lumps of sugar, and my one tin cup. The top of my flask made a second. If diminutive, drinking vessel, and very quickly we were drinking tea, and munching crackers in perfect good-fellowship.

Moving unthinkingly, from somewhere about her the derringer dropped to the floor. She gazed at it in round-eyer horror.

"It might have gone off!" she breathed.

It was impossible not to laugh as I stooped to pick it up. She grew prim again instantly.

"What were you laughing at when you were upstairs?" she asked suspiciously.

I related my disconcerting encounter with my own reflection, when I also had been quite sudden with my pistol, and we laughed over it together.

"Do you know," she confided, "I thought you were laughing because you knew I was there, dodging around from room to room to keep out of your sight."

"I am quickly accounted for," said I, "A civil and mining engineer, temporarily idle, I am doing a little prospecting on my own account. It has always been a theory of mine that this country was never more than scratched a little on the surface."

"Dad surely ought to be back by now," she said, with a return of her anxiety. And then she quite simply expounded the mystery of her presence, which, after all, was no mystery.

"A few weeks ago a man came to papa in Los Angeles, and told a tale of having located a mine, the richest ever, but he had never done his assessment work on it. He was without the price of a meal, not to mention enough to get him over here and he offered to show papa the place and give him a half interest, if he would come down here with him and relocate. He said there are too many people prowling around through this country these days—you for instance—and that somebody else was liable to rediscover and locate his precious mine at any time. He got papa interested finally, and prevailed upon him to come, and I made dad let me come just for fun. About noon we stopped here with the intention of eating our lunch, and papa went down to the lake after a pail of water. I got out and came up on the porch to peep into the windows of this house. In the wink of an eye that ungrateful wretch was off with the car, and left papa and me staring at each other from opposite sides of the road like a pair of Cheshire cats. And the worst feature of it was, he had the lunch basket!"

I silently passed her the cracker tin. She took one and nibbled it as she continued.

"We held a council of war, and decided the only possible thing to do was for dad to walk back 10 miles or so, and try to get a conveyance of some sort at a ranch we passed. I never walked that far in my life, at once I mean, and would have been a great hindrance to him, when time is so important. And we both thought I would be perfectly safe in this old house, so papa gave me his derringer and left me. And not a soul came by, or a thing happened until you."

"Are you not rather glad I happened?" I ventured.

"Yes, I am," she answered frankly. "It was getting mighty spooky for a fact, and cold. But I wish now that my father would happen."

As if in answer to her wish there was a sound of wheels outside. She whisked to the door, and I followed, not too far behind to witness the look of tense anxiety on the face of the newcomer give place to one of pleased relief on beholding his daughter, safe and joyous. The sight of my pony must indeed have given him some bad moments as he approached.

My inconnue cleared the situation at once by introducing me.

"Very glad to know you, Mr. Stanup," said the old gentleman, extending his hand with perfunctory cordiality. While his daughter adjusted her hat and veil, and looked for her gloves, his eyes rested thoughtfully upon my range pony. Suddenly his face lighted. He turned with animation to me.

"That looks like a mighty good little broncho," he suggested. "I presume my daughter has told you of our ridiculous predicament. It has occurred to me that if you would drive her on to Hawthorne, and lend me your pony, I might outwit that scoundrel yet. He knows no more about a machine than I do about roping a steer, and he is bound to come to grief before he gets very far. I used to be very familiar with this country once myself, and I can come pretty near locating that mine now without any further assistance from him. It can be but a short distance from here in an air line, and I can cut through the hills on the pony."

The suggestion was promptly approved by me, and Daughter's protesting "Papa?" was met with a somewhat brusque reply.

"It is the best that can be done, my dear. I am determined not to be made a monkey of by that scamp. There is a decent hotel in Hawthorne. Mr. Stanup will take you there, you will engage a room for me and register us both, and I will be with you some time tomorrow."

He imprinted a hasty salute upon his daughter's cheek, and was off at a swinging lope across the plain. Daughter turned to me with a little laugh that was almost a sob.

"You seem to be in for it!" she said.

"It sure looks as if I were elected," I replied, dissembling my exceeding joy, lest I should appear to be taking an unfair advantage of the situation. Then I proceeded, as matter-of-factly as if nothing epochal had happened to me, to give the team a drink and extinguish the fire upon the hearth. For I would have no snapping sparks destroy my blessed House of Dreams. Perchance I might wish to spend my honeymoon in it. Nothing could seem beyond the bounds of possibility now; not even that I should win this fair maiden whose name I did not know as yet, but whom my heart had joyously acclaimed at the very moment when she was pointing a pistol at my head.

As we drove away from the House, Papa rode into a gully between the hills and disappeared from our view. And under the brooding sky in all that dun world, there were but we two, as alone as the first pair.

Reducing the Cost of Living

In these days of soaring food prices it behooves the careful housekeeper to pick those foods that give the most nourishment in proportion to their cost. With the prices of meats beyond the reach of a table allowance that once proved sufficient, one must choose something that provides meat nourishment without meat cost.

That food is found in Faust Spaghetti. Faust Spaghetti is made from rich, glutinous Durum wheat. It provides as much nourishment as many times its value in meat or eggs. A 5c package of Faust Spaghetti will provide a generous helping to five persons. You cannot find a cheaper food, nor a better food—nor a food that is so universally enjoyed. Many thrifty housewives who serve spaghetti in some form very often, make it the chief dish for dinner once a week—and they say that it does not only prove economical but also receives the hearty approval of their families. The Jarr Family

Willie Qualifies for a Hero Medal.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY ROY L. McCARDELL.

MASTER WILLIE JARR knew full well where the dentist's was. In fact, he had been led up to the door of the neighborhood molar mechanic and bicuspid operator some several times.

Having refused to enter the dread portals in the company of his mother, Master Jarr, under the dire and strictest commands of his father, had been cast forth from the parental flat with an explicit order to return with the affected tooth in his hand or never return at all.

Mrs. Jarr watched from behind the window curtains, wondering whether her brave boy would be too brave to return home if he wasn't brave enough to enter the dentist's torture chamber.

Mr. Jarr had been determined to build up the child's physical and moral courage by this Spartan test. But it was he who had suggested, in a whispered aside to the fond mother, that the faithful Gertrude should disguise herself in Mrs. Dusenberry's old gray shawl and shadow the son and heir of the Jarrs to see he did not, in desperation, run away to kill Indians or become a drummer boy and be slain in battle rather than face the terror and torment of getting a tooth pulled.

Master Jarr, holding tight to the dollar bill to pay the torture, and sobbing heart-brokenly, crept slowly down the street, while the ever faithful Gertrude, who, like Mrs. Jarr, felt it was "a shame!" lurked and followed on the other side.

She was just about to cross over and kiss the unhappy child and bring him back home in triumph with a declaration that if the tooth must go so would she, when a group of urchins, led by Master Slavinsky, came flying around the corner, assaulting Master Gussie Bepler, the butcher's overgrown and somewhat feebleminded son, with sticks. This, in juvenile circles, is called "Playing Policeman."

"Hey, Bill, where yuh goin'!" cried Master Bepler, halting in his flight.

"He's got a dollar!" cried Master Slavinsky, who, through some strange sort of second sight, could see through Master Jarr's closed fist.

On meeting his young playfellows, Master Jarr drew himself erect. All trace of pain and fear had vanished.

"I'm goona get muh tooth pulled out!" he said proudly.

In an instant "Playing Policeman" was forgotten, and the young savages of civilization had centered all their attention on this interesting member of their tribe.

"Does it hurt?" they asked.

"Naw!" said Master Jarr, scornfully. "It would hurt anybody else but me, but I laugh at it. Anybody got any candy? I'll eat candy. That's how much I care for that old tooth!"

Nobody had any candy. Nobody had the wherewithal to purchase candy.

"Why don't you buy candy and eat it, sticky candy like 'Jawbreakers' or hard candy like 'All Day Suckers?'" asked Master Izzy Slavinsky. "You got a dollar. Buy a lot of candy and treat us all!"

Master Jarr affected great indifference.

"Candy's for kids," he said. "I'm going to chew terbacker. Anyway," he added. "I got to go to the dentist's. Haw! I ain't afraid of him, like you fellers 'ud be!"

"Betcher are! Betcher are!" cried his dear playmates, sticking their tongues out at the courageous lad, and making derisive and, alas, even vulgar gestures.

A twitch of excruciating pain struck Master Jarr about this time, but he stiffened up like a soldier and smiled like a stoic.

"If it was hurting you fellers like it hurts me now, you'd be screamin' an' runnin home," he said proudly.

"I'll betcher hollered when you was home!" sneered Master Slavinsky.

"And run cryin' to your mudder," said Master Gussie Bepler.

He might have added that such was his own procedure upon all painful occasions except when he ran from his mother to escape them.

"Aw! He's a fib! He ain't got no toothache!" cried Master Slavinsky.

"Ain't I? Look at it!"

And Master Jarr opened his mouth and pulled the right hand corner down and away with his forefinger to disclose the horrific cavity in the second maxillary molar.

"You're afraid to let me stick a pin in it," said Master Johnny Rangle, the boy demon.

"Yes, yes! He's afraid!" cried the other little Zulus.

Master Jarr stood firm and proud. "Go ahead," he said calmly, "I kin stand it."

"You'd be afraid to let me pull it with pinchers my papa's got in his shop, and give me the dollar," said Master Slavinsky.

But the pure commercialism of this proposition was repugnant to the rest, and Master Rangle suggested they put the tooth but share the dollar.

Exquisite Loveliness of Hair and Skin

(Annie Bly in The Realm.)

"The exquisite loveliness of English girls' complexions can be gained by American women who take the same care. Instead of powder and paint, use a simple lotion made at home by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply in morning, rubbing gently, and your complexion will be as clear, soft and satiny as a baby's—with no dark or muddy discolorations.

"Abundant and glossy hair follows continued dry shampoos. Wetting takes the life out, and makes hair brittle and colorless. Put a cupful of cornmeal in a fruit jar, add an original package of therox, shake together, and you have a six months' supply of shampoo powder. Sprinkle a little on the head and brush out well. Do this every week or two and your hair will be bright, fine and wavy.

"Don't neglect a cold. You must be well to look your best. Remember, colds lead to chronic catarrh. The best remedy for colds, catarrh, sore throat, croup, etc., is Mother's Salve. It is wonderfully healing." —ADV.

LOVE AND COURTESY

BETTY VINCENT.

A Dilemma

A. P. writes: "The son of my employer has been paying me marked attention. I am very much in love with him, but I know if his father saw us together I should lose my situation and I cannot afford to do that. Yet I do not want to give him up. What shall I do?"

Tell the young man frankly of the position into which he is forcing you. Then if his intentions are serious he will offer to marry you. If he does not do this you should surely stop seeing him.

Give Him All.

M. D. writes: "A young man with whom I correspond has married and we have agreed to return each other's letters. But he wants his postal cards. Is he right in this?"

The point is perhaps a little strained, but you should give them up since he requests it.

Write a Note.

L. B. writes: "A young man who lives out of town said he would call on me a week ago, but didn't come. Would it be proper to write and ask him if he has been ill?"

If you know him pretty well it would be all right to send him a friendly note.

A Valentine to Heaven.

I KNOW not how these lines to send,
Dear soul that took the starward flight—
And yet our past a hope doth lend
That thou canst read me as I write.
And if not so, thou yet wilt know
These whispers that are thine and mine;
For God hath ways to make it so—
And thou shalt be my valentine.

But if by some good messenger
This word must seek thy cherished name,
Thy heart, I hope, will yet infer
Wherefrom the earthly message came;
Some little ways of thought or phrase—
Some hidden thrill 'twixt line and line
That we two knew in olden days—
Will tell who wrote the valentine.

Sweet one, they cannot make me fear
That stately heaven can check thy glee,
Or bar me from the comrade cheer
That made the earth like heaven to me!
For e'en amid thy toil to rid
Of pain and sin our suff'ring race
Oft came the merry laugh unbid,
That never lost its girlhood grace.

So, while the silver jest goes round,
And while the air gives gold of mirth,
I feel thy heart may yet be found
Among the merriments of earth.
Heaven were a task, could I not bask
Within that merry glance of thine.
And so, 'twixe smile and tear, I ask
Thee, dear, to be my valentine!

Perhaps Otto Stifel's Magnetism Will Complete That Columbian Circuit

STIFEL TO BE AT OUTLAW LEAGUE MEETING TODAY

Holders of Columbian Franchises Will Meet to "Show Their Hands."

By W. J. O'CONNOR.

PROMOTERS of the Columbian Baseball League, an outlaw organization, are gathered in St. Louis today for a game of "show down."

Each of the embryo magnates feign would know what the other "has got." All hands will be tossed on the table at noon when President John T. Powers calls the first business meeting to order with the following representatives present:

William Niessen, Chicago; Walter H. Pearce, Louisville; Otto F. Stifel and William Urian, St. Louis; Mat Hinkle, Cleveland; J. C. Masker, Kansas City; W. A. Matthews, Indianapolis, and John Roesink, Detroit.

Mr. Niesen represents Judge Melville of Milwaukee, by proxy.

The Columbian League men are a confident lot. "We'll play ball in April sure," is their battle cry. They anticipate no opposition from organized baseball and are worried now only about the sincerity of each other in financing the various clubs.

St. Louis will be represented at today's meeting by Otto F. Stifel, millionaire brewer, according to William Urian, who holds the local franchise. Mr. Stifel has not invested a cent as yet, but he promises to post forfeits today, if he is favorably impressed with other members of the league, Mr. Urian says.

Other magnates are here prepared to put up the cold cash. William Niesen of Chicago, who is regarded as the "big man" behind the new league, had the following to say:

"We are ready to play ball on short notice in Chicago. I also am ready to post forfeits of any amount that the league sees fit to demand. I have a ball club lined up and I'm sure will be playing before the end of April."

When asked whether he would antagonize the big League by stealing players, Mr. Niesen said:

"No, we will not ask any players to jump their contracts. However, we will have no scruples about signing big leaguers who have not signed with their major League club. We will not respect the reserve clause, and such a clause will not find its way into our by-laws. We do not believe that any person or combination has a right to say what a man shall do after his contract with said person or combination has expired. For that reason we will sign any big League player who is not signed with a big League club.

Reserve Clause of Big Leagues Not to Be Respected by Columbian

"TAKE Mordecai Brown's case, for instance. Mordecai has served the Cubs faithfully for years. At present he has no contract with Murphy, but he is 'reserved.' Now, if Brown plays with me, do you think the fans will be 'against him?' I should think not. Brown has done his share to make the Cubs a great team. He served out a contract, and now he's ready to accept employment with some other firm. He cannot do that under the rules of organized baseball unless Murphy consents. Under our rules, a player will be at liberty to sign with whomsoever he pleases after he has served out his contract. We are against peonage. We will tolerate no reserve clauses."

Mat Hinkle, the Cleveland representative, is in favor of Niesen's suggestion. Hinkle says he has a park, players and plenty of money to run the Cleveland club. Incidentally, Hinkle admits that he is the man who has backed the championship amateur team of Cleveland for four years, at a great expense. Also that he is the recognized fight referee of the Forest City, and annually gives a $300 football trophy for the independent teams to struggle for. "Now, though, I'm ready to accept money for my services. I think the time is ripe for a third league, and I want to be in on the ground floor. We have unlimited backing in Cleveland."

Walter Pearce, a newspaper man, is the Louisville representative.

"We are ready to incorporate for $75,000 paid up," declared Mr. Pearce. "We have a park and applications from no less than 62 players. We are ready to play ball."

President Powers thinks the organization of the league will be a mere matter of formality.

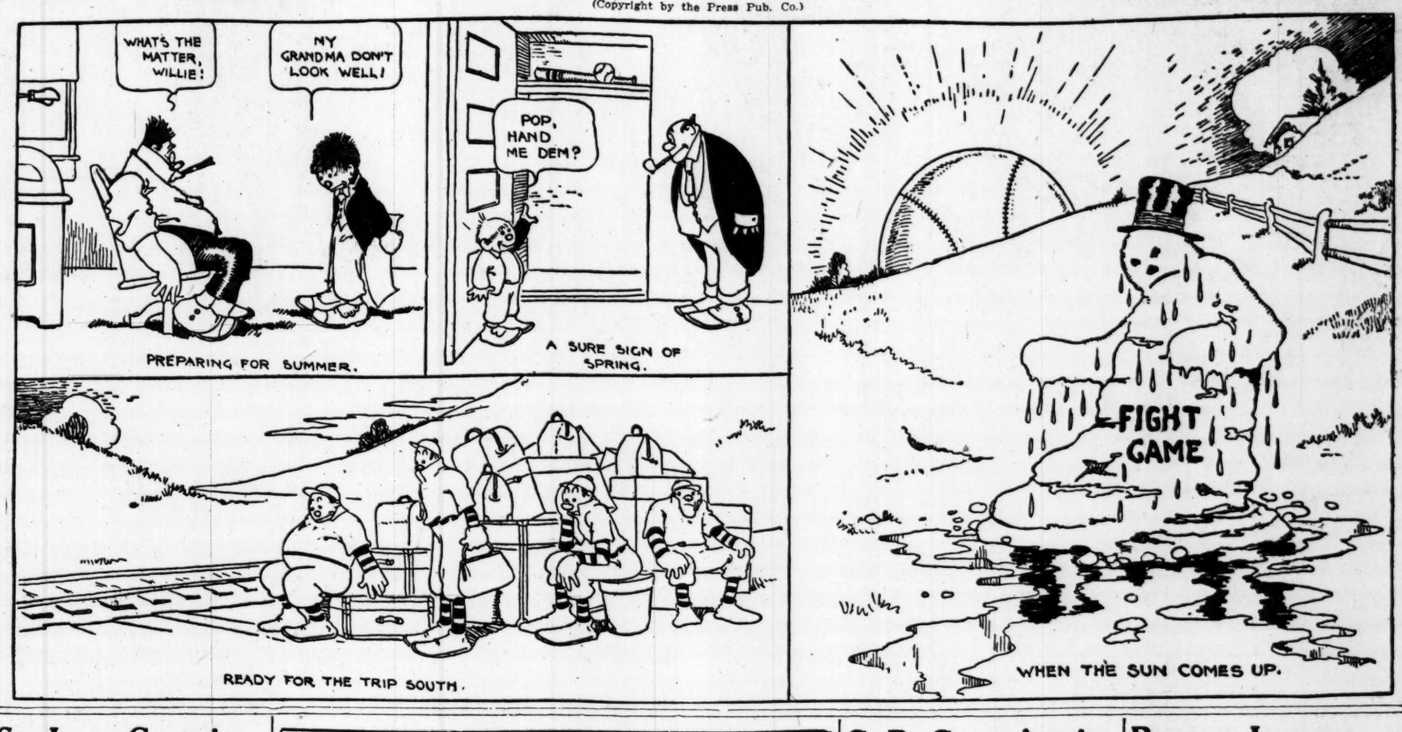

"Here's the situation," declares Powers. "If we fail to start this year, then the major leagues will balk our plans by putting an American Association club in Chicago in 1913 and Class B clubs in Cleveland, Louisville, Detroit, Milwaukee and other A. A. towns. The handwriting is on the wall. This is our opportunity and we will not let it slip by."

Monday's meeting originally was called for 10 a. m., but was postponed at Mr. Stifel's request. All the magnates were on hand at the Planters at the time originally stipulated.

CARL MORRIS TO MEET STURDY FOE IN JIM STEWART

Two-Hundred-Pound Opponent of White Hope Has Won Last Five Bouts.

HAS A KNOCKOUT PUNCH

But Oklahoma Giant Is a Vastly Improved Boxer, Since Defeat by Flynn.

BY ROBERT EDGREN,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Brooklyn will see two of the up-to-date mastodons of the arena in action at the Carlisle A. C. tonight, two of the biggest of the big "white hopes." Carl Morris is one and he's about the biggest white hope in captivity. The other, Jim Stewart, is nearly as big as Morris. In fact, Stewart prides himself on being as tall as Morris, even if the Oklahoma Hercules is a few hundred—I mean a few pounds—heavier. Stewart is a little fellow, as weight goes, scaling 206 pounds stripped, while Morris can top that by about thirty or more.

I saw Stewart a couple of days ago. Said he:

"I wonder why some people seem to think that I'll have a lot of trouble with Morris?"

"Have you ever seen Morris fight?" I asked.

"Sure," said Stewart, "I saw him fight Flynn."

"Oh," said I.

Of course, if Stewart is basing his plan of battle on the fight he saw Morris make against Flynn, that being far back in the days when Morris was a regular yap, just in from the prairie, and innocent of all knowledge of things pertaining to the left jab and the right cross, he is entirely justified in thinking Morris will be easy.

Stewart Has New Style.

But Stewart says he understands that Morris has learned how to handle his bulk and show something very much like a good style of fighting.

"I expect to beat him anyway," said he. "I hope to surprise my friends Monday night. I don't fight the way I used to. I've been tried out pretty well and knocked out the last five or six men I fought."

"What's the difference in your fighting?" I asked.

"Just this," said Stewart. "I've been training hard for a long time, hoping to get on a big fight like this one with Morris. And I'm in the same kind of shape I used to be when I was starting in. I show muscles in my body that I haven't shown for years. A couple of years ago I had some trouble in keeping in shape. The fat would come on and I couldn't work it off. But my mother fixed that. She said if I'd do as she said I'd get in shape. Then she cut down on what I ate. I used to eat twice as much as I needed. When my mother took charge she used to make me get up from the table when I thought I was about half through. Now I'm eating just the right amount, and the fat is all gone, and I never feel heavy. I've been living up in the mountains, too, and training a lot out in the open. It has made a difference. You will see that I'm much faster and stronger than I used to be. I'm not out of the championship race yet, and I think I'll be a notch nearer the top Monday night."

St. Leos Certain to Retain Title in Soccer Race

Must Win but One More of Three Contests to Land the Flag.

Four association football teams battled to two tie games at Athletic Park Sunday afternoon, but two goals being scored during the entire afternoon's play. In the first attraction, the Knights of Columbus eleven battled the Irish-American Athletic Club team to a 0—0 score, while in the final game, the Innisfails were rather fortunate to hold the St. Leos to a 1—1 score.

Duke Sheahan muffed an attempt to get the ball away from the goal, giving O'Berta of the Innisfails an easy chance to tally a count. But for that the St. Leos would have had a 1—0 victory.

The results Sunday practically make it certain that the St. Leos will win the pennant. The teams each have three more games to play and in order to beat the St. Leos this team will have to lose every game. Considering the rate at which the champions have been playing, this is hardly to be expected.

The work of the back fields of both teams was largely responsible for failure of the shooters to land more goals. Abstein, Petersen and Johnny Miller were the stars of the game, they doing a world of work in saving the goalkeepers trouble.

The forward work of both the Irish-American and Knights of Columbus teams was below par, and that perhaps accounted for the failure of the elevens to score.

WRAY'S COLUMN

WOODS ARE FULL OF THEM.

OF course it had to come—Packey McFarland refuses to let the same manager handle both Willie Ritchie and himself; so Willie is out in the cold, seeking someone to divide his receipts with him, if he wins battles, or make excuses if he loses.

Don't worry, William. There are many really kindly disposed persons in the world who would gladly let you work for them the rest of their lives and will only charge 50 per cent for their generosity.

• • •

IS PACKEY JEALOUS?

AS matters stand now, Packey is getting "nervous" about his glory. He hasn't done anything to brush up his luminosity for ever so long. In fact he had one of his lamps put out by an unknown named Kid Burns recently. His last long bout ended in discredit to himself, as, although he outpointed his foe, Thanksgiving day, Murphy gave him a royal battle.

Ritchie, on the other hand, made a monkey of this good boy Young Erne, and made clever Fred Welsh sprint his liveliest when substituting against the Briton for Wolgast.

McFarland polished Ritchie's skill up to the point where he now considers him a rival instead of a mere sparring partner. The worst of it all is that Packey can't make 133 for the championship, while Ritchie is well able to get down to the figure.

• • •

WHAT YOU MAY EXPECT.

BUT soft! What's this? The split between the two is just a frame-up, you say? Well, it may be. It paves the way to a match between the sparring partners. And when old stable mates meet, feed box information says "stay off." It may be just a plant.

• • •

YES, THEY ALL WANT HIM.

BRESNAHAN would like to get Vincent Campbell, the young St. Louis outfielder now on Pittsburg's holdout list. Be sure he would. Vincent is one of these thirty-thirty artillerymen, at bat, is fast and has many years of service in him. But in return what could Roger give Pittsburg? Nothing but mere money, which no magnate cares about, in these times of plenty.

Now if he could hand over Bob Harmon, Fred Clarke might prick up his ears.

• • •

SAL ONLY TRADING MATERIAL.

SLIM SAL is the only card Roger would trade, and it is very dubious if he would dare let go the erratic one, unless he landed a Miner Brown or other known quantity for his flinging corps.

In fact there is very little likelihood that Roger can better his team, at this late day. The battle line of this season will be virtually that of the past year. With everything breaking right, it is good enough to give a fight to most of the clubs in the League, even if it can't make a noise like a pennant winner.

• • •

THEN WE COULD "FLY HIGH."

A BRITISH engineer has invented an airship that will balance itself. If he could only devise a bank book with the same trait!

• • •

EXPERIENCE TEACHES.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS' COLLEGE will place college football on its list of its sports this fall. Time was when the college maintained a good team in the field, but the disasters attending the season of 1905 resulted in the dropping of the game.

Before starting out on its 1912 career, the promoters of the sport at C. B. C. will do well to read over the history of the game at the college—that is the part behind the scenes—and profit by the valuable lessons to be found therein.

• • •

GET IN EACH OTHER'S WAY.

FRANK CHANCE is going to take South 16 pitchers, this spring. He wants to take every precaution to provide against the staff failure which he confronted last year. But, although there is a proverb which says that there is safety in a multitude, in this particular instance it may not prove true. Big squads prevent a manager devoting sufficient time to individuals to find what is really in them. Sixteen pitchers will require a lot of coaxing and attention before it is safe to say which will never do and which are all right. The wing that is fine in the spring, tra la, generally has little to do with the pennant in the fall.

• • •

SMALL STAFFS WORK BETTER.

THE fewer men a manager has to watch, the more attention he can give the individuals. The bane of the minor leaguer coming up into the majors is the number of competitors he must try out against. The squads are reduced by League rules and before the backward in developing have had time to show at their best.

They are discarded, when a few more weeks' coaching might have brought them up to their top notch.

Again, almost any manager will tell you that more than five pitchers are too many. Four men working in rotation deliver the best results for teams.

One of the great secrets of the Philadelphia Athletics' success is the possession of just such a staff in Bender, Coombs, Plank and Morgan, with Krause a capable fifth.

C. B. C. to Again Take Up College Football Game

King's Highway School Abandoned the Sport When Rules Were First Changed.

Brother Lawrence Sixtus, head of Christian Brothers' College, announced last night that college football, abandoned by the institution in 1906, would again be taken up.

The matter has been under discussion for some time between the faculty, students and alumni, and a decision was reached Sunday.

A schedule is already being made up, Transylvania of Kentucky being one institution that has offered the collegians a game. A coach is also being sought.

Christian Brothers once maintained a strong team, and its eleven figured in some of the most sensational games played in this city. Especially bitter were those with Washington, St. Louis U., Marion Sims and Kirksville osteopaths.

Boxing Notes

Ad Wolgast, who picked Johnny Coulon to beat Frankie Conley, has just made the announcement at Los Angeles, Cal., that he figures Abe Attell such a sure winner over Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland in their 20-round bout at Vernon, Cal., on Washington's birthday afternoon that he has already wagered $1000 on Abe's chances against $700. If Wolgast bets on Attell it is almost a sure thing that Abe intends to fight in his best form and that he expects no one to dope him.

Knockout Brown, the New York lightweight, will journey over to Philadelphia tonight, where he will let fly his punches at Billy Galley, the Australian lightweight, in a six-round bout before Jack O'Brien's American A. C. Galley has made a great impression with the fight fans of "Philly" as a result of his good fighting there, which caused O'Brien to stack him up against Danny Morgan's fighter.

A match has practically been arranged between those two New York fighters, Jack Goodman and "Kid" Burns. Billy Gibson has made the managers of the men a good offer to meet for a 10-round bout on Feb. 20. Abe Marks, manager of Burns, has already accepted the terms and it is expected that Sammy Kelly will do likewise for Goodman. Burns' good showing against Packey McFarland has made him many friends.

Jim Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, who won the first fight in Australia by getting a decision over Bill Lang in a 20-round bout, in a letter to a friend here says that he has been matched for fights with Dan "Porky" Flynn, Jack Lester and Sam McVey. He further states that Sam Langford was robbed out of his decision in his bout with McVey as he won easily on points and the fight drew $35,000.

According to a dispatch George Schneider, matchmaker of the Cleveland A. C., Willie Lewis of New York and Paddy Lavin of Buffalo have been signed up by Schneider to meet in a 12-round bout at 148 pounds, weigh in a 3 p. m. on the night of Feb. 16. If the fight takes place it should be a hummer, as Lewis and Lavin fought a great 10-round go at Buffalo, N. Y., a short time ago.

Fred Coulon of New York, uncle of Johnny Coulon of Chicago, the bantamweight champion, received a telegram from the little fighter in which he states that he arrived at New Orleans O K from Los Angeles, Cal., and had started in training for his coming championship battle with Frankie Burns of Jersey City before the West Side A. C of New Orleans on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 18. "I beat Conley handily," said Johnny in his telegram, "and I expect to win from Burns."

Joe Jeanette, the great colored heavyweight of Hoboken, who has difficulties in getting on bouts, has finally been successful in getting a fighter to meet him. This scrapper is Andy Morris of Boston, whom Jeanette will swap punches with in a 15-round go before the Annex A. C. of New Haven, Conn., on the night of Feb. 27.

Rock Church and St. Marks Win.

Both games in the Amateur Soccer League resulted in 1—0 scores, Sunday. In the first sonata, the Rock Church eleven trimmed the College, while the St. Marks nosed out the Visitations in the final frame.

Bryson Leaves A. B. C. Race to Lambert Forces

His Withdrawal Leaves Judge Howard as St. Louisan's Only Rival for Presidency.

Poo-bahs of the local tenpin world are overlooking no bets in their efforts to elect J. D. Wooster Lambert, the wealthy young St. Louisan, president of the American Bowling Congress. Several campaigners are touring the country electioneering for Lambert, and word comes from the front that the St. Louis man is in line for the big job.

Dennis Sweeney, the Ban Johnson of the local game, hied himself to Chicago Monday, in hope of persuading the Windy City delegates to swing in line for Lambert. Martin Kern returned Sunday from Cincinnati, where he boosted the Lambert cause, while Morris Phillips has just returned from Indianapolis.

Bryson Not a Candidate.

Phillips brings back the cheering announcement that Robert Bryson will not seek re-election. However, Mr. Phillips is not sure that the Bryson forces will not support Judge Howard, the Chicago candidate; but it is agreed that Lambert will profit by Bryson's withdrawal whether or not the Bryson votes go to Howard. Lambert does not fear Howard as much as he does Bob Brown of Louisville, who threatens to be an eleventh-hour candidate. Brown is generally regarded as the man Lambert must beat.

Bankers Can Roll Some.

That the bank clerks are good bowlers is being forcibly impressed on local tenpin men every day. Charles Schnellbacher of the Commerce League is regarded as one of the best pin-toppers in the city. Now comes Heidenreich of the Third Nationals, who topped all the tenpinners last week with a three-game total of 681.

KUTINA TO OPPOSE KONEY'S ALL STARS

Joe Kutina, the fence-breaking first sacker of the Browns, who is a bit tardy in signing his contract, will be a member of the Marquette indoor nine of Chicago, which will call here next Saturday for a three-game series with Ed Koney's All-Stars. The games will be played at the Jal Alai Rink, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Other big leaguers on the Chicago team will be Ed Sweeney, the Yankees' star catcher, and O'Leary and Schaefer, ex-Tigers. Koney will have Bobby Byrne, Arnold Hauser, Larry Doyle, Bill Abstein, Otto Williams and Letfy Leified on his local team.

Forward Pass to Have More Prominence, Says Coach of Brown Eleven

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 12.—The whole football situation in 1912 will hinge on the development of the forward pass, in the belief of Donald Pryor, the Brown University coach.

He says:

"It will take several weeks of experimentation and study to determine definitely the necessity and possibilities of the game in its new clothes. It seems at first glance that the changes should produce what they were intended to produce—a running game.

"It is true the big teams will be able to beat the small ones by comfortable margins; but when the giants clash, unless the forward pass is well and systematically developed, the running game will fall and 1912 will find the big teams relying on their kickers, just as they did in 1911."

St. Paul Heads Rifle Teams.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Scores of the Western Interclub Indoor Rifle Shooting League matches held last week and made public here today show St. Paul recorded the highest score with Tacoma second. The scores: Milwaukee 885, Adrian 900, Los Angeles 847, Dickinson 902, Helena 942, Tacoma 969, Minneapolis 958, St. Paul 978. The Bisbee and Butte teams defaulted in their matches with the Badger and Madison Clubs, respectively.

SPRING THOUGHTS

One by one
The holdouts fall;
One by one
They hear the call.

We'll behold
Each honest face
In the old
Familiar place.

Winter's snow
Will melt away;
When it goes
We'll shout, Hooray!

When the grass
Begins to sprout,
In a mass
We'll all turn out.

When the sap
Begins to run,
Then, mayhap,
We'll have some fun.

Oh, the joys
Of gentle spring,
When the boys
The leather sting.

With the spring's
Ensuing dope,
Brightly springs
The dawn of hope.

The shears are mightier than the pen.

This is the birthday of Abraham Lincoln the man who put down the rebellion. This is also the day the representatives of the Columbian League will meet in St. Louis to start another rebellion.

ZYBSZKO AND RAICEVICH IN ELIMINATION MATCH

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the giant pole, and Giovanni Raicevich, the Italian, were in fine fettle today for their wrestling match at Madison Square Garden, which will finally determine which man will meet Frank Gotch for the world's championship. Tom Jenkins will referee the contest.

Diamond Glints

Disguised as a David Harum, Col. Robert Lee Hedges, president of the Browns, will depart for Chicago tonight to attend the American League meeting. Col. Hedges will be accompanied by Manager Wallace and a body guard of newspaper men, who will look after the local American League club's interest in the Windy City

The Browns are in the market to make any sort of a trade that will bolster up the Sportsman's Park nine. A catcher is the prize most sought, but inasmuch as four American League managers refused to waive on Nig Clarke when the Colonel tried to slip the Brownie back to Milwaukee, it does not seem likely that the Browns will perloin a mitt and mask man via trades.

National League moguls will congregate in New York this week for their annual pow-wow and it is not at all improbable that Manager Bresnahan will pull off a few trades. Roger could use Vin Campbell, the speedy St. Louis boy who has refused to sign with the Pirates and may try to put through a deal with Clarke. However, the Pittsburg club needs Campbell just as bad as Roger does.

BIG LEAGUES TO NAME SCHEDULES

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The annual schedule meetings of the major leagues will be held tomorrow, the National League owners meeting here and the American Leaguers in Chicago.

The Joint Rules Committee will convene here during the week, although there are no indications that any radical legislation is pending.

As soon as the schedule meetings are over the task of getting the teams ready for the Southern training grounds will begin. Before another week has passed, Manager John McGraw of the New York Nationals will be headed for Marlin, Tex., to prepare a camp for his Giants.

Manager Wolverton of the New York Americans will leave for Atlanta in about two weeks.

STAGG MAY HAVE TO GIVE UP COACHING

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Coach A. A. Stagg, it was announced last night, will not return to take charge of his athletic work at the University of Chicago until April 1. He had been expected to be here to direct the work for the indoor meets.

Continued illness is given as the cause of his decision to remain at Pinehurst, N. C., where he has been for several weeks.

It is said that he is able to play golf and has not been confined to his bed at any time.

NELSON TO APPEAR AT REGAN'S BENEFIT

Battling Nelson, who is here today from Hot Springs, is one of the many friends of the late fighter, John Regan, to appear at the benefit tendered the wife and children of the dead boxer.

The performance will take place at the Irish-American Athletic Club, tonight at 8 o'clock. Vaudeville and other features will be staged, but no boxing will be permitted as the doors will be open to the public as well as club members.

Nelson expects to do a monologue. He paid his expenses from Hot Springs in order to participate in the event, refusing the club's offer of transportation.

MURPHY WOULD STOP ALL TINKERING WITH PLAYERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—President Murphy of the Cubs will go to the National League meeting in New York, this week, prepared to suggest a change in the constitution intended to prohibit club owners from offering positions as managers to baseball players while they are under contract to another team, without first asking permission of their employer.

President Murphy argues that a player becomes discontented if he is unable to obtain his release after being offered a managerial berth.

M'LEAN PROVES STAR IN ICE-SKATING MEET

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—George McLean, international skating champion, was the star yesterday in the first annual meet here of the South Side Skating Club.

McLean won one event and lost first place in another through disqualification on a foul. He won the two-mile scratch, the feature event, in a close finish from W. E. Gunderson and Lee Jensen, who were second and third respectively. There were 19 starters.

He lost first place in the mile event by crossing in front of Harry Kaad just before going over the line. Kaad was given the race, with Jensen second and Gunderson third.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is in reality an internal inflammation—a diseased condition of the blood cells which supply the nourishment and strength necessary to sustain our bodies. Uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, gets into the circulation because of physical irregularities, and then instead of nourishing and invigorating the body, the blood irritates and inflames the different nerves, tissues, muscles and joints. because of its impure, acrid condition. The pains and aches and other disagreeable and dangerous symptoms of Rheumatism can never be permanently cured until every particle of the cause is driven from the blood. S. S. S. does this because it is a perfect blood purifier. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, purifies and cleanses the circulation, invigorates the blood, and completely drives Rheumatism from the system. Plasters, liniments, soothing lotions, etc., may be used for temporary relief and comfort they bring, but a cure cannot be effected until S. S. S. has removed the cause. It frees the blood of every impurity and makes it a rich, health sustaining fluid, to bring permanent relief and comfort to those who suffer with Rheumatism. STEEL TRUST IN SOUTH TO ABOLISH CONVICT LABOR

Message From Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. Tells House Committee of Purpose.

CONDITIONS DESCRIBED

Contractors Frequently Hire Own Guards, Testifies Head of Alabama Prison Board.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—From James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railroad, the Stanley Steel Trust Investigating Committee expected to learn today some details of the so-called Hill lease of the Lake Superior ore fields to the United States Steel Corporation and also information relating to the steel corporation's transportation facilities in the lake ore region.

In response to the subpena served on him at Jekyll Island, Ga., last week, Hill appeared before the committee when it resumed its hearings today, but was excused until later to permit the closing up of testimony relating to labor conditions in the steel plants in the Pittsburg and Birmingham districts.

J. D. Oakley, president of the Alabama State Convict Board, testified that 350 convicts had usually been utilized by the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co., a subsidiary of the Steel Corporation, but this year, in the absence of a contract, the convicts had been turned over to a coal company.

Steel Officers Protest.

Officers of the steel company protested against this. George Gordon Crawford, the president, said that though eventually the company intended to replace convict with free labor, the change would take time and it was necessary to procure convicts for 1912.

Oakley replied that the Tennessee company was too late in taking up the negotiations.

"When convicts are leased out," asked Chairman Stanley, "are they disciplined by their employers?"

"The men who make the contracts frequently hire their own warden and guards," Oakley replied, "but the convicts are always subject to the jurisdiction of the State."

Fines Are Worked Out.

Misdemeanors, the witness said, are subject to hard labor. If a man is fined and does not pay it, he works out his fine as a convict laborer.

D. A. Reed, attorney for the Steel Corporation, read a telegram from President Crawford of the Tennessee company stating that at the expiration of 1912 the company proposed to get rid of all convict labor. At the present time the company had only 180 convicts employed.

DR. ENNO SANDER DIES AT AGE OF 90

He Was Pioneer St. Louisan and Hero of the German Revolution.

Dr. Enno Sander, president of the mineral water company bearing his name, pioneer St. Louisan and hero of the German revolution of 1848, died Monday at St. Luke's Hospital. He lacked a few days of being 90 years old, having been born Feb. 27, 1822.

A physical collapse, largely the result of extreme age, caused his death. He had been in the hospital for several months.

Dr. Sander, as a young man, was a leader in the movement, finally crushed by the government, which caused Carl Schurz, Dr. Emil Preetorius, Franz Sigel and other men, since distinguished in this country, to leave Germany.

He was assistant secretary of war for the revolutionary fortresses, and was in command of a fortress in Baden when the revolution collapsed.

He was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment, but was freed in 1850 and came to the United States. He had been in the drug and mineral water business in St. Louis since 1853. He was an inventor and a member of several scientific societies.

CHANGE OF VENUE FOR ALFRED G. BUTLER

He Shot and Killed the Brother of Girl He Loved at Her Home Last June.

A change of venue to Judge Taylor's court was granted Monday by Judge Rassieur, to Alfred G. Butler, who shot and killed Eugene Walsh in front of the Walsh home at Bruno and Forest avenues last June. Butler presented an affidavit, signed by James Broadhead and T. G. Brown, in which he said Judge Rassieur, in his opinion, could not preside impartially at the trial.

Butler, according to the police, was in love with Walsh's sister, Nellie, who spurned his suit. In a letter to another young man, it is charged, he made uncomplimentary remarks about Miss Walsh, and her brothers demanded that he come to their home and explain. Eugene was shaving when Butler arrived. He walked out on the lawn and was shot through the heart. Butler's plea is self-defense.

Holdup Gets Imitation Diamond

Fred Dougherty of 2321 Olive street wore a large stone in his necktie as he emerged from the Twentieth street exit of Union Station Sunday night. A highwayman followed him to a dark street, hit him on the head with a "billy" and tore the stone from his scarf. Dougherty told the police the "bauble" was a piece of glass worth about 25 cents.

OXYGEN PUMPED INTO LUNGS CALLS MAN FROM DEATH

Asphyxiated Chicagoan Sits Up, Well, After Three Hours' Work With Pulmotor.

IS FIFTH TO BE SAVED

Simple Device Which Draws Poison From System Gives Doctors New Control.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Again have doctors performed the marvelous operation of recalling the apparently dead to life. This time the apparatus used was the pulmotor.

David Haas was asphyxiated by illuminating gas in his room at the home of Mrs. C. E. McElvoy at 5115 Indiana avenue yesterday. For more than three hours friends worked over him. They failed to restore respiration and Haas was given up for dead. Dr. J. E. Lewis was called and sent for a pulmotor. In another three hours Haas was able to sit up and express his wonder and his thanks.

Dr. Lewis said: "It seemed to me there was very little, if any, hope, but I thought there might be a chance and it was worth trying. Speaking medically, Haas was in a state of death when the machine arrived. Practically speaking, he was dead. He was certainly beyond all other aid. We pumped oxygen into his lungs for three hours and that finally brought him back."

New Control Over Life and Death.

That this simple apparatus has given man a new control over life and death, the doctors are certain. Haas is the fifth who has been "called back." Fifteen others who would have died have been saved.

Saturday morning Nathan Robowski and his wife, Mrs. Rose Robowski, and Dennis Riffski, their boarder, were overcome by illuminating gas and found dying. Robowski apparently was dead when the pulmotor was obtained. The doctors called it "incompletely dead," because he had been pronounced dead only a few moments.

The pulmotor was applied to all three at intervals of two minutes for each patient, Robowski first. At the end of half an hour all were conscious. After an hour's work the oxygen had pumped the poisonous gas from their lungs and all three were able to walk. Soon they felt, they said, as if nothing had happened to them.

Pulmotor a German Device.

The pulmotor is a German device. The one used here is owned by the Commonwealth-Edison Co. It consists of a tank holding oxygen under pressure of 3000 pounds to the square inch, with a pump and a valve for reducing the pressure to two ounces to the square inch. The oxygen is pumped into the lungs direct through an apparatus invented by Dr. Harry M. Richter of the Northwestern University Medical School.

When no pulmotor can be obtained an ordinary electric vacuum cleaner can be used. But this pumps only air into the lungs instead of oxygen. Dr. Richter used a vacuum cleaner in the case of Miss Florence Woodman and kept her alive 29 hours. Miss Woodman, who was a student at the University of Illinois, had been operated on for an infection of the brain. An operation had to be performed and she died under it. Four doctors, working in turns, kept the vacuum cleaner pumping 30 hours. But the girl's heart had been too weakened.

Illness Will Delay Appearance Here Until March 10.

The next concert will be Monday evening, Feb. 19, when the New York Symphony Orchestra of 80 musicians, Walter Damrosch conducting, in a Beethoven-Wagner program, will be at the Odeon.

The soloist will be Gertrude Rennyson, an American girl friend of Frau Wagner.

S. M. DODD DEAD; WAS BENEFACTOR OF THE Y. W. C. A.

Bachelor, 79, Noted Figure, Succumbs at His Home in Vandeventer Place.

WAGNER ELECTRIC HEAD

Women's Association Occupied His House Rent Free and He Gave for New Home.

Samuel Morris Dodd, 79 years old, capitalist and president of the Wagner Electric Manufacturing Co., died of heart disease at his home, 53 Vandeventer place, at 12:50 a. m. Monday.

Dodd, who was a bachelor, long had been known as one of the most generous benefactors of the Young Women's Christian Association in St. Louis. He was a large contributor to the fund to erect the association's building now nearing completion at Fourteenth and Locust streets, and for years the association has occupied rent free his former home at Garrison and Lucas avenues.

Several times recently when Dodd was ill special prayers were offered for him by members of the Y. W. C. A.

Stricken in an Elevator in June.

Until last June, when he was stricken in an elevator in the New Bank of Commerce Building, where he had his offices, Dodd was at his desk every day. In the last few months his health rapidly failed and he was forced to take to his bed two weeks ago.

Two nieces and nephews, who made their home with him, were at his bedside. For several hours he was kept alive with oxygen.

Dodd, with his ruddy complexion, and snowy hair was a conspicuous figure in the business world of St. Louis. Shrewd financiers sought his advice. They always spoke of him as "Uncle Sammy" Dodd.

Dodd was a director of the Missouri-Edison Electric Light Co. at the time of its merger with other companies to form the Union Electric.

It was said at the time that Dodd strenuously was opposed to the merger and that for a long time he refused to let go of his stock. After the merger he founded the Columbia Incandescent Lamp Co. and remained at its head until the Wagner company was organized.

Capacity for Business Great.

Dodd's apparent vigorous health and capacity for business were matters of such general comment that newspaper writers frequently asked him to give others the benefit of his experience and tell for publication how he remained apparently young. A few months ago on his seventy-ninth birthday, he said to a questioner: "Just wait until I am 90. Then I will tell you all about it."

Dodd came to St. Louis from New York in 1851 and became an employe of the Baldwin & Randall Clothing Co. Ten years later he founded the clothing firm of Dodd-Brown. He retired from this business in 1885.

He was a member of the St. Louis, Noonday, Country, Cuivre, and Adirondack clubs and honorary vice-president of the Missouri Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

WOMEN DANCE HALL INSPECTORS OPPOSED

Rector, in Sermon, Cites Delegate Walker's Objections to the Plan.

In preaching Sunday in favor of the bill to provide inspectors for public dance halls and other places of recreation, the Rev. James Wise, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, said he had invited the delegate from the Seventeenth Ward, in which the church is situated, to come and hear the sermon.

"He told me he would not be able to attend," said the rector, "and I then asked him what he thought of the measure. He said he was in favor of it originally, but that since [illegible] of women had been at the city [illegible] advocating it, he had turned aga[illegible]."

Dr. Richard A. Walker, [illegible] delegate from the Seventeenth Ward, [illegible] said Monday that the minister had quoted him correctly, and added that his chief objection to the bill was that it provides for women inspectors. He said he favored the principle of supervision of amusements, but would oppose the measure in its present form.

Oil King's Son Arranges 15 Lectures on the Subject for His Bible Students.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Two young men of the Rockefeller Bible class will listen to 15 special lectures beginning Feb. 18, under the general title of "Facts Necessary to Be Known About Engagement and Marriage."

Frisco Chinatown to Be Isolated Unless Peace Pact Is Signed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—Stirred to action by the reported arrival of six Hip Sing tong gun men from Sacramento, Chief of Police White summoned to his office today the two Chinese supposed to exert the most powerful influence among their countrymen in the local Chinese quarter.

They are Consul-General Li Gung Yew and Wong Sam, secretary of the Six companies.

The Chief told them that unless the four warring tongs had signed a truce within 24 hours he would throw a cordon of policemen around Chinatown to warn all white visitors that they entered the quarter at the peril of their lives.

Guaranteed First Mortgage Participations

These participations are certificates of ownership in Guaranteed Real Estate First Mortgages which are held in trust.

On the same principle that certificates of stock are used to represent shares in the assets of a company, or as bonds are employed to convey and allot divisional interests in securities, so the Participations are a means of dividing among investors ownerships in First Mortgages on high class city real estate.

They enable you to participate in these securities for any amount from $50 up.

POWDER MAGAZINE EXPLODES, 500 MEN SAVED BY MIRACLE

Only Part of Ammunition Ignites, the Rest Being Blown Into Air and Scattered.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A powder magazine on the Government's proving ground at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, exploded early today with a report that was heard for 10 miles. The magazine was set off by a flying spark from the embers of a small fire which had started two hours before in a fuse storage house near by.

Five hundred soldiers from the garrison who had been called out to fight the flames, were within a few rods of the structure when its roof shot skyward and for a time it was believed that scores of lives had been lost. Officers declared later, however, that so far as could be ascertained no one was harmed by the terrific blast.

This miraculous escape was due mostly to the fact—almost unbelievable—that only a small part of the stored powder ignited. The bulk of the ammunition was simply blown skyward and scattered about the vicinity unexploded. Experts declare that had this been exploded, few of the soldiers around the building would have escaped

Men who volunteered for the task returned to fight the fire after the explosion. They labored for more than an hour before the flames were checked.

M'KELVEY INDIRECTLY PAYS $5 FEE TO CITY

Amended Permit in Havlin's Improvements Adds $9500 to the Cost.

Building Commissioner McKelvey has indirectly paid into the city treasury the $5 permit fee for the repairing and reconstruction of Havlin's Theater, which was made the basis of criticism of him in the report of the City Council Investigating Committee.

This was done by the filing of an amendment to the original permit taken out by the McKelvey Construction Co. The estimated cost of the improvements under this original permit was $2000 and the fee was $1.50.

According to McKelvey's testimony at the Council hearing, the actual cost of the work was $111,600. On that basis the fee should have been $6.50, instead of $1.50.

McKelvey, in testifying before the Council Committee, said that he would never pay the additional $5 fee.

The amended permit now filed adds $9500 to the amount named in the original permit as the cost of the improvements. The permit is issued to Mrs. Katherine Spalding, owner of the property, and the records show that Mrs. Spalding paid the $5 fee and that it is now in the city treasury.

ARRESTS SOON IN DYNAMITING CASES

Government Men Awaiting Signal to Gather In Men Who Are Indicted.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 12.—"Waiting for the signal," was the way Government officials today described the situation in regard to the prospective arrests of the forty or more men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy cases.

It was understood that the United States District Attorney's office here was checking up the receipt of capiases in various Federal districts where the defendants are known to be and that as soon as the last of the warrants had been received the simultaneous arrest of the men would be ordered by telegraph.

District Attorney Charles W. Miller refused to say whether the arrests would be ordered within 48 hours, but it was reported all the men who can be reached by that time will be taken in custody.

Progressives Propose to Have Joint Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Senators Lea of Tennessee and Kenyon of Iowa, the former a progressive Democrat and the latter a progressive Republican, today framed a joint resolution proposing an inquiry into the so-called "Money Trust" by a joint committee of the Senate and House.

The House Democrats, in caucus, already have decided for an investigation by the regular committees of the House, and it is doubtful if they would accept the new proposal.

BOILING WATER IN GULF

Steamer Bound for Texas Finds Area a Mile Across.

GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 12.—A field of boiling water in the Gulf of Mexico is reported by vessels about 240 miles south by east of the Texas coast. The area of hot water is variously given as from a half to a mile across.

The British steamship Merceedian, bound for Port Arthur, passed through the hot sea Thursday morning. Attention was first attracted by the many dead fish. Fishing schooners passing along the edge of the hot area report having heard an unusual disturbance or explosion at sea Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—After hurling a large piece of concrete through one of the front windows of the British embassy in this city today, a man giving his name as Frank Fitzpatrick and his home as New York, calmly waited on a street corner, opposite the embassy building, for the arrival of the police.

The man's act created much excitement and the call for the police was sent by an embassy attache.

FATHER IN PRISON, MOTHER AND NINE CHILDREN AIDED

Neighbors and Friends Flock to Aid of Mrs. G. V. Steck, Convicted Postal Clerk.

When George V. Steck, former postoffice clerk, went to the penitentiary three weeks ago to serve three and a half years for stealing a $25,000 registered package of currency from the Annex Station, the wages of sin fell most heavily on his wife and nine children, residing at 4563 Newport avenue.

Only one of the children is old enough to work, and Mrs. Steck was forced to leave the others to the care of friends while she went out to earn a living for them.

In order to keep the family together, however, many persons are adding contributions to the small wages earned by the boy in a shoe factory and the $40 a month Mrs. Steck gets. Se has gone to work as a scrubwoman at the Soulard and Arsenal postoffice stations, while neighbors, policemen and friends are caring for the three children too small to go to school.

Neighbors Keep Children.

Every day when Mrs. Steck goes to work the three little ones are taken in charge by a neighbor and cared for until the mother returns at noon. Mrs. William Joerns of 4563 Newport avenue cared for them the first week; Mrs. Ben Konisman of 4555 Newport avenue the second and the wife of a patrolman named Seidler of 4547 Newport avenue, the third.

Mrs. Michael Streib of 4547 Newport avenue took the children Monday morning. All these neighbors are persons of moderate means and have heavy household cares of their own. Mrs. Joerns' husband is a teamster, and Mrs. Konisman, the wife of a laborer, has nine children of her own.

The Newport Improvement Association also has undertaken the task of helping Mrs. Steck preserve her home and will give an entertainment for her benefit March 31. Postoffice employes sent her a purse of $25 and an unidentified man in Kirkwood sent her an order on her grocer for $25 worth of supplies.

Four coal dealers contributed one load of coal each, and the police have donated groceries and offered to help further if necessary.

Mrs. Steck is preparing a petition for her husband's pardon or parole. Steck kept the $25,000 hidden in a chicken coop at his home more than a year and returned all the money but $1450 when he was arrested.

JUDGE FALKENHAINER IN NEW BUILDING

Passes Box of Cigars as Part of Ceremony Following Change of Quarters.

Judge Victor H. Falkenhainer opened his branch of the Court of Criminal Correction in the new quarters in the Municipal Courts building Monday. There was only one case on the docket, that of Sam Dutcher, charged with fourth degree forgery. The courtroom was decorated with flowers and the Judge passed around a box of cigars. Judge Miller of the other branch of the Court of Criminal Correction was present to aid in the ceremonies.

This being Lincoln's birthday, Judge Falkenhainer announced the rest of the docket had been postponed until Tuesday. Attorney Joseph Furling, who had waived preliminary hearing in behalf of his client, Dutcher, said:

"Judge, you are not a bit like the great emancipator whose birthday you are honoring. If he were here he would set my client free." The Judge smiled.

BURGLAR FINDS KEY, GETS LOOT OF $2250

Enters Home While Dicksons Are Asleep and While Servants Are at Church.

A burglar entered the home of Joseph Dickson Jr., 376 Walton avenue, at 7:30 a. m. Sunday and stole jewelry and money to the amount of about $2250. He unlocked a rear door with a key that had been left on a window sill by the servants who had gone to church and ransacked the house while Mr. and Mrs. Dickson and their daughter lay asleep.

In the loot were a la valliere set with 12 diamonds, a gold chatelaine with mesh purse, mirror and pencil, a breastpin, several rings and $60. The police believe the robber was a negro, who had been seen prowling about the neighborhood. Some of the jewelry he took belonged to the servants. Dickson is a member of the law firm of Dickson & Dickson.

Della Brogatsky, who has been in jail two months with her 11-months-old girl baby, was released on her own bond Monday when the United Railways Co.'s case against her was laid over by consent to April 2. She is indicted with Carey L. Carson, a money lender, on allegations that she defrauded the railway company out of $720 by falsely representing herself as injured by a fall from a street car.

After they had been released on bond, Carson disappeared, and the woman went to her parents' home in St. Paul. She was brought back and surrendered.

MEDICINE USED IN RURAL DISTRICTS

Over 35 per cent of the population of the United States are said to live in rural districts remote from physicians or drug stores, and they are obliged to depend upon proprietary medicines to a very great extent.

To the women in these homes, such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound come as a boon and a blessing.

For nearly forty years this splendid medicine, compounded from roots and herbs, has been relieving the women of this country from female ills. Merit alone could have stood such a test.—ADV.

Velvet

THE SMOOTHEST TOBACCO

YOU want what you want when you want it.

It takes two years to produce Velvet—two years from now for those who will want it then—the two are up for those who want it now.

That was all thought out—nobody had to wait. And wasn't that care and forethought worth while! Wasn't it worth while to pick so painstakingly those dainty middle leaves of Kentucky Burley, to reject all but the perfect ones, and then to lavish all this time and patience on the mellowing?

Wasn't it worth while to lose the sting and to gain everything else you like? You'll say so when you snuggle up to "the Smoothest."

GIRL, ACCUSED BIGAMIST COURTED, ILL WITH GRIEF

Mother of Miss Eads Says Jesse B. Carroll Was an Ardent Wooer.

WANTED FOR SHORTAGE

Prisoner Breaks Down in Cell When He Receives Telegram Father Is Dying.

When the police arrested Jesse B. Carroll, who is said to have confessed to detectives that he is a bigamist, he was at the home of his newest sweetheart, Miss Hallie Eads, 19 years old, 3818 Maffitt avenue, trying to persuade her to advance the date for their wedding, which had been set for the late spring.

The young woman is ill from grief and was unable to tell her own story Monday morning, but her mother related the incidents of Carroll's courtship and his arrest in their home on charges of embezzlement.

"Jesse had come to our house Saturday and had told us he had given up his place with the Meletio Fish and Oyster Co.," the mother said. "We had had luncheon and he, Hallie and myself were in the living room.

Arrested in Home.

"He had just been telling Hallie they ought to hurry up and be married and intimated he was ready to make a trip to the home of his parents in Maryville, La., when someone rang the doorbell. Hallie went to the door and a man asked if Mr. Carroll was here. Jesse had told us a friend, named Frank, was likely to call upon us any day. Hallie asked this man if he were Frank, and he said he was. She admitted him.

"He went up to Jesse and said, 'You'll have to come with me.' Carroll simply said, 'All right, sir,' and went away with the man without a word of explanation to us. Of course, we knew he was arrested, but had no idea on what charge."

Mrs. Eads said that Carroll had been paying attentions to Miss Hallie for four or five months, and that all the family liked him. He was so young none of them considered inquiring if he had a wife, to say nothing of the two the police say he has admitted.

When she heard he was accused of spending money belonging to the Meletio company by which he was employed, the mother gave it as her opinion, if he had misused the money, he had spent it upon her daughter. She described him as an ardent wooer and said that he behaved as if he thought nothing could be too good for Miss Hallie. When he frequently urged haste in their wedding plans the mother thought it was simply the impulsiveness of the impatient suitor.

Sunday Carroll was hysterical in his cell. He wept often and said he had received a telegram from his home telling him his father was dying. His face was haggard and his eyes were red and swollen.

Prisoner Composed Now.

Monday, however, he had regained his self-control and refused to discuss his affairs. He would make no statement about the charge of bigamy and would neither confirm nor deny the police statement that he had confessed bigamy.

When the young man was searched after his arrest at Miss Eads' home letters from two women, both calling him husband, were found in his pockets. Detective-Sergeant Campbell says he admitted that he has one wife in Lake Charles, La., and another in St. Louis. The St. Louis wife, whom he married under the name of Charles J. Brown, said their wedding took place in this city a year ago.

Carroll is 27 years old. His father is a banker of Maryville, La.

LABOR CONTINUES TO OPPOSE BRIDGE BONDS

C. T. and L. U. Will Fight Issue So Long as Traction Grant Remains.

The Central Trades and Labor Union will oppose bond issues for the completion of the free bridge so long as the Southern Illinois Traction (Howe) franchise remains unrepealed, according to a resolution adopted Sunday. The union also demanded an eastern approach free from the control of any interest.

An invitation from the Brotherhood Welfare Association, James Eads How's hobo organization, to a tea, at which a campaign in behalf of a municipal lodging house is to be planned, was declined with thanks. The feeling of the union toward the lodging-house plan seemed to be friendly.

A debate over the disbursement of relief funds to striking waitresses resulted in a vote to place the money in the hands of a committee of men, for allotment in such manner as to remedy inequalities which caused complaint.
